FEDERATION OF AGRICULTURE ANNUAL MEETING AND BANQUET

The Hastings County Federation of Agriculture annual banquet and annual meeting was held in Trinity United Church, Madoc, on Thursday evening, January 30th. Once again, the Federation ran into bad weather and poor driving conditions, with the result that there were only about sixty-five members in attendance.

Following an excellent dinner served by the ladies of the church, Mr. Chas. Fargery, President, spoke briefly. He said the annual meeting both this year and last had encountered inclement weather, with the result that the attendance was not as good as had been expected. He also mentioned that only a small percentage of farmers were interested in any farm organization. He referred briefly to the changes in taxation and its effect on farmers.

Mr. Wilfred Forestell, Chairman of Zone 5 and Secretary of Hastings County Federation, introduced the head table and other guests, after which Rev. Heard welcomed all present to Madoc and to Trinity United Church.

In the absence of Mr. Griffin Ketcheson, Mr. Forestell introduced the guest speaker, Mr. David Crone, Department of Marketing and Research, Ontario Federation of Agriculture. Mr. Crone is the man who imported the English tractors, which he said sold here for more than twice what they did in Great Britain. Mr. Crone made it clear, however, that this was no reflection on local dealers. Farmers were not being exploited by the farm implement dealer. These dealers often passed on most of their commissions to the farmer and hoped to make a living by servicing them.

Mr. Crone said he was in favour of one farm organization. Farmers did not have one or two problems, but a multitude of problems and needed one organization to work for them.

Farmers have done more to raise the national gross product than anyone else. They are producing efficiently and food is cheaper in Canada. We all want a cheap food policy, but it is a bit erroneous when compared to housing and clothing. He said the reason that the farmer is in trouble is the increase in cost of implements and that everyone has bargaining power except the farmer. The farmer is receiving less than $1.00 per hour for his labour; and half the farmers do not receive enough for their products to purchase their basic needs and less than a third to purchase luxury items, such as television sets, etc. The farmers need one organization with bargaining power, not two organizations quarrelling with each other, he said.

Referring to the importation of the tractors, he said he induced seven farmers to put up $3,000 each. He then had a contact purchase 7 medium-size tractors in Great Britain, paying him a five per cent commission. The tractors cost less than half what they sell for here. When the tractors were ready on the docks for shipment, he flew to England, paid for them, had them insured, put below surface, where there was no danger from salt water, paid the freight charges and brought them here.

Mr. Crone claims that the farmer here is being exploited by the implement dealer and being forced to pay whatever the traffic will bear. What the farmer needs is one entirely new farm organization to look after marketing, production and purchasing.

Other speakers included Donald Sills, who thanked the speaker, Don Cayley of the O.F.A., Allan McDonnell, who read the financial report, Wilfred Forestell, who read the minutes of the previous annual meeting, and W. D. Tipper, Hastings County Agricultural Representative, who spoke on the Hastings Farm Service Club. Last year the club had 143 members and so far this year, 100 members. This club afforded the farmer an opportunity to express their individual opinions on farm matters, he said.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE OFFICERS INSTALLED

At the regular meeting of the Madoc District Chamber of Commerce on Thursday night, January 30th, the following officers were installed for 1969: Past President, Frank Downey; President, Gordon Pigden; Vice President, Clayton Smith; Secretary, Tom Ross; Treasurer, Jack Stewart; Directors, George Devolin, Clarence Farrow, Presley Nickle, Ken Broad, Grant Ketcheson and Harold Lyons.

New Fire Engine Used First Time

The new fire truck and equipment purchased by the Village last autumn was used for the first time about 8:00 a.m. Wednesday morning when the firemen were called to a fire at Ed. Hyde's Sunoco Station. Chemicals and water on the truck were used to extinguish the fire caused by the oil furnace.

The blaze was quickly extinguished and most of the damage was due to the smoke. An apartment over the station, occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Tokely, also suffered smoke damage.

LOCAL and PERSONAL

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Warren and their grandson, Joe Cooper, of Islington, returned home Sunday, after visiting their son, Elwood, and family in Glendale, Arizona. Mr. and Mrs. Warren report a most enjoyable trip.

Hit is the name of the game

"Hit" has become the name of the game in the National Hockey League.

Any team which does not hit does not win consistently. Players on the patty-cake puck squads wind up hoping for television commentary work at playoff tie to supplement their income.

No hit — no bonus money.

When NHL coaches and general managers discuss hitting, they are making reference to their players making "physical contact" and taking an opponent out of the play anywhere on the ice. A coach's motto regarding this would have to be: The opposing players can't score when they're knocked to the ice.

All clubs feel 40 hits a game will bring you out ahead most of the time.

But, the bug is this: Too many players are waiting for their pensions. The once exciting and often violent NHL action has now diminished to the point where teams such as Pittsburgh, Minnesota and Chicago can easily be intimidated by the other clubs.

It is little wonder these teams are slowly sinking into the abyss of pretenders.

Perhaps the only team which does not rely heavily on hits is the St. Louis Blues, but much of their haughty record can be attributed to their mastery over the Western Division of the NHL. Instead of hitting, the Blues lay down a checking blanket which muffles all attacks attempted by the western teams.

However, the Blues haven't checked their way to such dominance over the established squads, mainly due to the fact that teams such as Boston, Toronto, Detroit, etc., have physically pummeled the Blues.

Boston has become the criterion of hit hockey.

The Beantown Bashers have blended an unbreakable combination of hitting and artistry. For the past few years Montreal and Toronto blended these two qualities and took turns swapping Stanley Cup triumphs.

Although Toronto and Montreal continue to hit, they do not do it consistently and therefore, Boston is slowly and methodically moving away from the field. One would have to assume that even the usual second half slump experienced by most teams will not keep the Bruins from winning the Eastern Division pennant and the Prince of Wales Trophy.

Montreal has gone back to the skating style which earned them the nickname, Flying Frenchmen. Boston can not only catch the FF, but more important, they can out-skate and out-skate them.

Toronto has introduced a band of young brawlers, but even in a backalley tussle, the Bruins will come out on top.

Whether Boston is ahead by four goals or behind by five, they continue to "lay the lumber" on their foe. The Bruins don't play a kitty-bar-the-door style of hockey, but rather, they open it wide, punch you in the mouth, and then slam the door shut on your foot.

People across Canada are trumpeting for a team such as the Canadiens or New York Rangers to play the Russians in an exhibition game under NHL rules. This would be a mistake.

If we are to give the Russians a true picture of hockey the NHL way, let's sick the Bruins on them in a best-of-seven set.

Hockey moguls will tell you the Russians can adjust quickly and play the game any way you want.

This would allow such an adjustment.

As Boston's slick sophomore centre, Derek Sanderson, told me: "We've got to play dirty hockey to win."

No doubt you'll never hear a remark of this nature coming from a member of the Pittsburgh, Minnesota, Chicago or Detroit hockey teams.

and this year will also include the Anglican Women of the same area. The School for Leaders will be held at Albert College, Belleville, August 22-24.

Mrs. T. W. Spear, Literature Secretary, spoke on the literature available. Mrs. V. E. R. Zufelt spoke on Camp Quin-Mo-Lac and presented the needs. She said that there were three great needs at the present time — more counsellors, more campers and more help financially.

The speakers for Wednesday were Rev. and Mrs. Russell Young, Missionaries from Korea. Rev. Young works in Rural Evangelism and Mrs. Young is a nurse and also teaches English. They said that in Korea today the large cities are very westernized, but that the rural sections are still living 200 years back in history. They are full of superstition that all life is full of spirit. They said that the need for education is very great, as most rural women over thirty cannot read or write, and while many girls are now receiving an education, it is always the male who receives first chance.

The missionaries work with the church in Korea and their job is to encourage, not push. Today they are trying to meet the needs of the total man. In medical work they help staff the hospitals in the cities, but the need is great in the rural areas for more medical help to give aid in public health and birth control. In education they help staff the schools and colleges, but educational facilities are limited in rural areas. There are also agriculturalists who are helping to raise the standard of living by better farming methods. Rev. Young said that the concern among Korean Christians is changing; that they are now showing more interest in non-Christians.

Luncheon was served by Pictou U.C.W.

The afternoon session opened with worship conducted by Grace, Napanee U.C.W. A solo was given by Mrs. Roland Collier, Pictou.

The afternoon presentation, S.S.D., took the form of a skit and it told about the new Stewardship Services Department which will take effect in 1970. It explained the reason for the formation, the members of the committee, and its functions and duties.

Rev. R. F. Sherwin conducted the election of officers which resulted as follows: President, Mrs. Harry Pearson, Wellington; Vice President-elect, Mrs. T. W. Spear, Trenton; Recording

WINTER FUN FOR EVERYONE AT TWEED CARNIVAL

Winter fun for everyone is the theme of Tweed's Winter Carnival planned for February 7th, 8th, and 9th, and that is what visitors will find during the coming carnival weekend, according to Chamber of Commerce members who sponsor this annual event.

A torchlight parade down main street at 7:30 p.m. Friday night, followed by hockey at the Community Centre, where the Ottawa 67's will meet the Toronto Marlboro's in OMHA Midget Hockey, to provide the opening night program.

Hastings County's first annual skydiving competition will take place on Stoco Lake at 1:00 p.m. Saturday, February 8th, weather permitting, with some 20 competitors expected to take part.

The Silver Blades Skating Club of Toronto, an affiliate of the Canadian Figure Skating Association, will be the feature attraction at the Saturday night show held in the Community Centre. In the past five years, three members of this Club became gold medalists — one "double gold" — the highest level of CFSA qualifications.

In past years, the Saturday night show has been a Carnival highlight. This year's show promises to be as good as any in the past, and will include an old timer's hockey game with players from Tweed and Madoc.

Hockey games will be played at the Community Centre during Saturday morning and afternoon, while the Tweed Curling Club has arranged a "Bedtime Bonspiel" from midnight to 8:00 a.m. Sunday morning.

The Kiwanis Pancake Breakfast will start the Sunday activities at 9:00 a.m. Last year, with over 600 persons attending the breakfast, the Kiwanis Club was all but eaten out of house and home. This year, they are preparing for an even larger attendance, with plenty of pancakes, sausages and local maple syrup for everyone.

Snowmobile races on Stoco Lake will be the feature of the Sunday afternoon program, with races for the Hastings County Council and the Labatt's Open Race, along with races for both stock and modified machines.

Other Sunday events include hockey at the Community Centre, along with snowmobile rides and sleigh rides at Stoco Lake.

A carnival of this type does much to break the winter monotony and add a little warmth to an otherwise chilly season of the year, according to the Chamber of Commerce president, Kenneth Little, who adds that his organization is inviting everyone within driving distance of Tweed to join in the carnival weekend activities on February 7th, 8th, and 9th.

If you have to reverse in thick snow, make quite sure that you do not get your tailpipe clogged. The Ontario Safety League warns that drivers and passengers have died from carbon monoxide poisoning within minutes of backing into a snow drift. If the tailpipe is blocked, the deadly fumes are unable to escape normally and may accumulate inside the vehicle.

PLATE SALES LAGGING

One million, four hundred and sixty-two thousand, seven hundred and fifty-nine 1969 licence plates for passenger cars are still to be purchased, with a little less than four weeks to go before 1968 plates expire midnight, February 28th.

To date, only 27.6 per cent of the plates have been purchased. Sales are lagging behind the sales at the same period last year — and, there are more plates to be sold this year than last.

The total number of passenger cars is 2,020,385, up nearly 100,000 from last year.

Motorists are reminded in cases where the ownership of a used motor vehicle is being transferred at the time of registration, a certificate of mechanical fitness is required when applying for new plates. Vehicles licensed previously in another province or country and being registered in Ontario for the first time, also require a certificate. (No certificate is needed for the normal purchase of plates which continues the same ownership with no transfer involved.)

MR. WONDERFUL. The Telegram-Maple Leaf Indoor Games on February 14 will be highlighted by the competitive appearance of Bob Beamon, world record holder in the long jump. His jump of 29' 2 1/2" was considered the outstanding individual performance at the Mexico Olympics. — TTS Photo

BELLEVILLE PRESBYTERIAL U.C.W. ANNUAL MEETING

The Belleville Presbyterian United Church Women held their seventh annual meeting at Pictou United Church on January 28th and 29th. The theme for the meeting was "Is Your World Too Small?". The President, Mrs. Harry Pearson, Wellington, presided for all sessions.

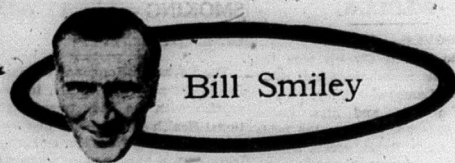

The speaker for the evening session was Rev. Warren R. Bruleigh, B.A., B.D., Minister of Program and Leadership Development, Woodroffe United Church, Ottawa. As an introduction to his address, those present were divided into groups where they discussed briefly the areas of concern or problems to them or the women they know. The areas discussed were: Personal Concerns; Family Concerns; Community Concerns; Regional Concerns; Provincial Concerns; National Concerns and International Concerns.

In speaking, Rev. Bruleigh asked, "Is our world large enough to include Red China and the thousands of the world population who go to bed hungry every night? Is it too small to include coloured citizens? Does your world include hippies and yuppies, student power leaders and black and red power advocates? Do you accept that you have a God-given right that all your rights and privileges will be given to you or do you believe that everyone should have equal rights?"

Dr. Bruleigh continued "On the other side of the picture, is our world too big? Is our world so big that we concern ourselves about far away, but ignore the needs nearby? What is the right decision now? Perhaps when we are more concerned with things then we can spread out."

Music was supplied for the evening by the Quartette from Pictou United Church. Greetings were extended by Rev. R. F. Sherwin, B.A., B.D., of Pictou.

Wednesday morning, greetings were extended by Mrs. Earl Welbanks, President, Pictou U.C.W. and by Miss Vina Neal, President, Bay of Quinte Conference, United Church Women. She announced that the Conference Annual Meeting would be held March 3rd, at King Street United Church, Trenton, the theme to be "Know your Neighbour". The Regional Conference for Women will be held this year at Queen's University on June 20-22. This is arranged by Bay of Quinte, Ottawa, and Montreal Conferences

Bill Smiley

The "Generation Gap"

This week, I showed my students a film about the much-vaulted "Generation Gap," and then had them write an essay on it. The gap, not the film.

Coincidentally, on that very day I received two letters that gave me new thoughts about the "gap."

One was from my old high school math teacher. I don't mean that he was old. It was just a long time ago.

It was a pleasant shock to hear from him. The pleasure came from his report that he was alive and well and curling and skiing. The shock was the realization that the gentleman we called "Old Flem" is only about 22 years older than I am.

Strangely (as things so often happen in this world), I was talking about him in school that very day. The kids and I were talking about corporal punishment, strapping, slapping, the whole business.

I told them about how Miss Liza McCullough used to break pointers over my head regularly, and Miss Mary Walker used to strap me and my young brother and a kid called Gee-Gee Relyea three times a week, whether we needed it or not. And we liked them. And how Mr. Cosgrove, our science teacher, a man of gigantic proportions and the patience of a saint, used to sweep two of us off our stools with one cuff. And we never held it against him. An how my old math teacher, at a point when even the angels would be tried, used to give us a punch, with two knuckles, just below the ribs. And we liked and respected him, when we got our breath back.

Those people got a rotten deal, financially and socially, from the community. But at least they could clobber a kid, and that's worth a lot of money. If you even shake your finger at some rotten little hoodlum nowadays, he either turns out to be a barrack-room lawyer, or else he's too big to clip on the ear, because he could eat you alive, and would.

My other letter, the same day, was a chatty, friendly one from one of my last year's students, now at university, enclosing a parody of Hemingway she thought I'd enjoy. How's that? Three generations, and no discernible gap. Maybe it's because none of us are teenagers any more. "Old Flem" would like "Young Ruth, and I'd enjoy talking to both of them.

Well, to go back to the beginning, some of the essays assigned were revealing. One blames the gap on age. Another says it's been there since Shakespeare, which is true. Others say it's been blown out of all proportion by the news media, seeking for conflict and the sensational.

Another says: "It is just the intense fear children have mobilized in their parents. And of course, fear of the unknown is the most powerful fear in man."

The same one says: "Fear has advanced to prejudice, and prejudice is a deadly emotion to deal with. Deadly because it is composed of blind hate between strangers. And hate is a policeman's face as he confronts a barefoot girl, or a principal's face as he confronts a long-haired boy."

And on: "Then there are the adults who, posing as shocked and indignant, eat up such propaganda as 'Wild in the Streets,' search newspapers for teenage orgies on LSD, thrust mimeographed sheets of drug-addiction symptoms, and systematically punch out words such as 'job,' 'college,' 'goals,' 'money' and 'future.'"

This essay ends with the suggestion that, while this gap is not as serious as racial or religious prejudice, it is closing people's minds. Adults fear a revolution, but the young people, "to my knowledge have not even thought of such a thing. However, getting stronger and stronger every day, is the young people's urge just to be left alone. This tendency could be just as disunifying as a revolution."

Glad to hear from you, "Old Flem," and you, "Young Ruth." And all I can say is "Phooey to you, Kim Smiley," whose opinions, fragmented, appear in the quotation marks above.

TRENT UNIVERSITY RECEIVES GIFT

A gift of a quarter of a million dollars has been made to Trent University by Mr. Carl J. Sanders of Toronto, a retired businessman and mining executive. It was announced by Mr. Hugh F. Waddell, the Chairman of Trent's Board of Governors. Mr. Sanders' gift is in support of the national appeal announced a week ago to raise $5,000,000 to finance the University's continued development over the next five years.

Mr. Sanders has taken a close interest in the planning and growth of Trent since it was founded five years ago. He made a previous gift of $250,000 to the University in 1964.

In a brief statement in connection with his gift, Mr. Sanders said: "In making this gift I have in mind the University's achievements to date. These have been remarkable, both in extent and in quality. They deserve recognition and support."

"I also have in mind Trent's educational philosophy, with its emphasis upon good teaching and a close relationship between students and staff. This is a good one and I want to support it. It represents a significant experiment in university education which can be of great value to Canada."

"I want also to express my high regard for the faculty and staff of the University, and for the outstanding leadership which President Symons has given to Trent."

"I was also very impressed with the thoughtfulness and kindness shown to me by Trent students when I visited the University, and with the constructive personal interest which they are taking in their University."

"Lastly, I am impressed by the good support which the Peterborough community and the neighbours of the University in the Trent Valley region have been giving to Trent. The community and the University deserve the backing of interested people all across Canada in developing further this wonderful University. I hope and believe they will get it."

Commenting on Mr. Sanders' gift, President Symons expressed the appreciation of everyone associated with Trent University for his interest and generous support.

PORK PRODUCTION DAYS COMING

The Hastings County Hog Producers' have announced a series of three meetings for the month of February. They call these Pork Production Days. The idea of the three sessions is to provide as much information as possible in the shortest time for the hog producers in the county.

The first day is the Regional Swine Conference, on February 5th., being held at the Rock Haven Motel, Peterborough. The morning will be taken up with explanations and discussion on the New Grading System and some of the implications that can be seen as developing trends. In the afternoon, those in attendance will have an opportunity of choosing one of three workshops. These deal with Feeding of the New Grading System; Breeding for the New Grading System and Herd Health.

The second day deals with the annual meeting of the Hastings County Hog Producers'. It takes place on February 12th., at the Township Hall in Ivanhoe, starting at 1:00 p.m. Regular annual meeting business will be conducted. In addition, this is election year and nominations will be received between 2:00 and 3:00 p.m. for the six committee-men seats on the Hog Board. Special speaker for the day is John Long, Canada Department of Agriculture. He will deal with the New Grading System.

The third, and final day, of the Quinte Swine Program is February 19th., when the Quinte workshop on "Weaning Pig Production" will take place. This has been arranged by the Ontario Department of Agriculture and Food in conjunction with the Hog Producers' Association of the Quinte counties. It recognizes the fact that the production of market hogs is falling in the Quinte area, but the production of the weaning pigs for sale to the other areas of the province has a large and growing business. The workshop will be conducted by Garret Norrish, Ontario Swine Specialist, and Dr. Pete Oliver, the Ontario Swine Diseases Consultant. The workshop will cover all phases from the dry sow stage to the weaning of the litter.

Douglas Farrell and his Board of Directors of the Hastings County Hog Producers' urges that everyone in the swine industry make note of these meetings and plan to attend the sessions that are of most importance. They note that the annual meeting affects all producers.

It takes a college student 20 minutes longer to say what he thinks than to tell what he knows.

SNOWMOBILE BUSINESS BOOMING THROUGHOUT THE QUINTE AREA

After the winter of '69 the open spaces never again will be the snow-covered desolation of Canadian tradition.

Tradition has suddenly been ground to myth by the snow vehicle — a uniquely Canadian invention, sales of which have suddenly snowballed this year.

Less than a decade ago it was a mechanical eccentricity — combining skis, half-track and combustion drive, a novelty for a sporty minority.

But its popularity was as persistent as the performance of the ingenious little device itself. The fad became a phenomenon, building to a peak this year.

So much so that when the Ontario government recognized its importance with licence legislation, there weren't enough plates to meet demand.

"This has been the biggest year for the industry so far", enthused one Belleville dealer, who recalled he sold two snowmobiles in 1960, the first year he offered them for sale. "And I think we'll find an even bigger demand next year."

In Belleville, where more than 500 snowmobilers were registered this winter, the local provincial licence bureau ran out of licence plates more than once.

In Madoc, with a population of 1,400, some 200 of the machines are registered.

This is the region — the north country — where the snow vehicle is having its greatest impact.

It is as much an instrument of social change as a mode of sport.

Suddenly, vast stretches of the Quinte countryside, weather-locked for a good three months of the year, are accessible to the most urbane city-dweller.

The wastes of wintery landscapes one the domain of snowshoeing trappers, ice-fishermen and game wardens, are open to thousands.

And more than afternoons outings are involved.

Cottagers, who once deserted their lakeshore properties after a bare four-months' use, are slowly returning.

"Some people are winterizing their cottages, going up there for weekends", said one Belleville dealer. "There were owners who took their families in to spend Christmas or New Years."

Such scattered examples will likely increase and prospects for a resort region that makes its living only in the balmy holiday months, could be lively.

In the Marmora area, local snowmobile enthusiasts have launched a project to catch the current eagerness for the sport. They've plotted more than 200 miles of free trails through the North Hastings bush and furnish a map on request.

"There's no doubt about it", says a veteran department of lands and forests officer at Tweed, "the snowmobile is opening up the whole north country. For one thing, there will be a greater use of cottages."

Already the intrepid little carrier has proved invaluable to those who make their livelihood in the winter-bound northern townships.

Biggest benefits have been gained by district fur trappers and conservationists.

Skipping through the bush, the mobilized trapper has dramatically pared travel time between trap lines transforming what once was an arduous chore into just another day's work.

Conservation work also has been correspondingly eased.

Areas once almost inaccessible to land and forests game officers now are readily reached.

In populous areas, the vehicle has inspired an increasing number of sports events. It's the exciting key feature of winter carnivals: mass treks by fellow-enthusiasts now are a common feature of Quinte winter weekends.

In rural areas, at times the snowmobile replaces the family car for neighbourly visits.

Opinions on its phenomenal sales appeal vary. One Madoc dealer believes the machine's attraction may now have peaked. Others, differing, feeling the boom will continue into next year.

Prices range from about $700 to $1,500. After that come the options — a trailer, sled, special clothing, all adding more dollars, if desired.

But an inevitable future feature of the trade will likely make more and more machines available at a variety of prices.

Like automobile owners, snowmobile operators will desire to keep their possessions.

As yet, the commerce in traded-in models is not booming, although one Belleville supplier reported a few on hand earlier this winter.

MADOC DISTRICT SNOWMOBILE MEETING

Not even the Crystal Ball could predict the explosion in the number of Snowmobiles that has taken place in the past four years. One man who recently flew over Hastings County observed that, "Hardly an acre, in even the most remote parts, is untouched by Snowmobile Tracks".

Enthusiasm for the new sport is up-setting our local entertainment scene. It is nothing for ten or fifteen of the snowcats to form a "Snowfari" on a half hour's notice, then to go roaring over forty miles of country seldom seen in its winter splendor. Some of these trips don't even begin until early evening, in spite of frosty thermometer readings, giving the desk jockey, the housewife, the store clerk as well as the newspaper editor, an opportunity to get back out into our good Canadian air.

Government, realizing a potential in the new winter sport, has gone all out to help natural areas' such as ours, and money has been made available to Snowmobile Clubs who will use it to set up trails, make maps, or contribute to the safety of the "Snow Cats" in general. For, after all, who but snowmobilers themselves could better plan those facilities.

The Madoc District Chamber of Commerce has already received inquiries on facilities in the area. Our sister communities to the West, North and East, have beaten us to the draw and now well over a hundred miles of trails exist in the County.

The economical effect of the Snow Bug has already been felt in the community. And if you don't believe it, just watch the traffic on No. 62 for an hour or so this weekend. And it's not hard to see the day when our hotels and motels will be filled by people from the cities who have "no place to run the darned things". Better still, think of the economical boost to some of our spacious farm homes, whose lucky owners will be enterprising enough to advertise for winter sports-seeking families. With good old fashioned farm meals and bedding thrown in. A population increase, higher wages, shorter working hours, and longer holidays will all produce a greater number of people seeking winter fun.

To seek public reaction on the formation of an area snowmobile club, The Madoc District Chamber of Commerce will hold an open meeting at the Kiwanis Centre (Armouries) next Tuesday night at 8:00 p.m. The Chamber in no way seeks affiliation with a club, if so formed, but sincerely hopes that not only snowmobile owners, but future owners, as well as all interested parties attend the discussion.

WEDDING

BOYLE — DONLY

Eldorado United Church was the scene of the recent wedding when Georgina Lamoyne Donly, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Donly of Eldorado, became the bride of Kelvin Cecil Boyle, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Boyle of Eldorado. Rev. W. Sedgwick officiated at the double-ring ceremony. Wedding music was provided by Mrs. Fred Bailey of Eldorado.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a toe-length A-line gown of white chiffon velvet featuring long sleeves. The round neckline was trimmed with guipure lace, as was the hemline and cuffs of the dress. A long train fell softly from the waistline in folds and was edged with matching lace. Her wedding-ring headpiece of matching white velvet studded with pearls and rhinestones was caught to a four-tier nylon net veil and she carried a cascade bouquet of sweetheart roses entwined with ivy.

Miss Marilyn Parks of Madoc, as maid of honour, wore an A-line full-length dress of cranberry shade velvet with the Empire waist encircled with a dainty rose trim. Her head-dress was a circlet of white fur and she carried a white fur muff adorned with a solitary American Beauty rose.

The bridesmaids, Mrs. Bonnie Jones, of Tweed, and Miss Lynda Fox, of Madoc, were dressed identically to the maid of honour. Little Miss Jill Donly was "mock bride", while Scott Hayton of Bancroft was the "mock bridegroom". They were dressed identically to the bride and bridegroom respectively.

The bridegroom was attended by his brother, Kenneth Boyle, of Eldorado, while the ushers were Merrick Boyle and Lorence Donly of Eldorado.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church basement where the bride's mother received the guests attired in a three-piece forest green suit with feathered hat, black accessories and a corsage of bronze 'mums. Assisting, the bridegroom's mother wore a two-piece blue and black brocade double knit suit with white accessories and a corsage of pink 'mums.

For the wedding trip to Florida, the bride chose a rust coloured wool suit with beaver collar, brown accessories and a corsage of yellow sweetheart roses.

On return, the couple will reside at 366 Sidney Street, Apt. 3, Belleville.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank our friends and neighbours for floral tributes and many acts of kindness shown us during our recent sad bereavement.

Mrs. Tom Reynolds and family.

LIFE OR DEATH

The Canadian Home and School and Parent-Teacher Federation, in co-operation with the Department of National Health and Welfare, this month launched a long-term campaign, complete with a handbook of instruction, to stop children from smoking before they start. It is the goal of the Canadian Federation to bring up a new generation of people who do not smoke, and who will therefore be spared the sickness, disability and death that may result from cigarette smoking.

This campaign could be the greatest life-saving venture of all time. It is in reality a "Crusade Against Children Smoking". Parents do not realize that today the average child starts to smoke at age twelve, and some have been known to start as early as age six. It is also a well known fact that the younger a child starts, the greater the danger of lung cancer, heart disease and emphysema.

Every day in Canada, 300 school-age children have their first cigarette. By the time they graduate from school, half of the nation's teenagers are smoking. Could this not be classified a cigarette epidemic? Should parents not get upset? In fact, should they not get really upset and do something about it?

Parents should ask:— is the corner store turning its back on the law and selling cigarettes to under-age children? Should children be able to pick up cigarettes with a note from a parent, and should we waive the law for a lazy parent? Should cigarette advertising on radio and T.V. continue? Or has the time come for parents to help the government make up its mind on cigarette advertising?

Cigarette addiction among children is a social problem involving the entire community. To combat this addiction, it will require the total effort of the complete community, such as the news media, theatres (especially for children's matinees) youth groups, schools, churches and adult groups.

The Canadian Home and School and Parent-Teacher Federation's handbook will include guidelines for conducting an open meeting, sources for speakers, guidance for parents who are "hooked" by the habit and hope that their children don't get the habit, ideas for involvement of school-age children, and suggestions for attacking this social problem in the community. The Federation hopes to reach a half million parents with this life-saving campaign.

Our days are all the same size, like identical suitcases. But some people seem to manage to pack more into them.

TWO KILLED IN BLAZE

An Ontario Fire Marshall's investigator yesterday was probing the cause of a fire that took the lives of an elderly couple in a lonely North Hastings hamlet north of Bancroft Tuesday.

Killed in the blaze were Max Miller, 87, and his sister, Esther, 82.

Scene of the tragedy was their two-storey frame home outside New Carlow, a rural settlement about 25 miles northeast of Bancroft.

The couple's nephew, Rolland Miller, owns and lives in the house. He was in Bancroft at the time of the fire.

Neighbours who rushed to the scene were driven back by the intense heat, as flames roared through the structure. The house "went up like a matchbox", reported a provincial police officer and it was impossible to attempt rescue.

The nearest firefighting service is at Bancroft.

After the blaze, police spotted a body in the ruins, but were unable to reach it because of scorching debris.

Officers surmised the fire may have been caused by overheated pipes. The house contained wood and oil stoves.

Yesterday, fire marshal's inspector Paul McKerracher, recently appointed to Belleville, probed the ruins.

GUARANTEED INCOME IS ASKED FOR ALL WORLD WAR VETERANS

Max Saltzman (NDP — Waterloo) asked the government Monday to provide a guaranteed income to Canadian veterans of world wars.

Mr. Saltzman, who served in the RCAF for five years in the Second World War, said in the Commons that he is certain that it will not be too long before there would be guaranteed incomes in Canada.

It would be a tragedy if they came too late for those who had fought for Canada. Giving it to veterans first would be a good start.

Mr. Saltzman spoke as the Commons debated a motion by Jack McIntosh (PC — Swift Current — Maple Creek) asking the government to call in former prisoners of war for medical examinations.

The motion did not come to a vote again this session and probably won't be debated.

His motion said ex-Pow's not examined in the last five years should be looked at by veterans affairs doctors to ascertain the effects of privation, malnutrition injury or ill-treatment they suffered. This would forestall "the onslaught of many disabilities and prevent much later suffering and expense."

Hubert Bandanai (L — Fort William) said that a few years ago Canadian prisoners of war taken at Hong Kong in 1941 were re-examined and a result had been a sharp increase in pensions for some of them.

SEVEN GUNS STOLEN AT TWEED

Police are seeking clues in the theft of a small arsenal of firearms in Tweed.

Town police say seven used rifles and shotguns are missing after a burglary at Holmes Garage.

Thieves stole the guns — along with 25 cartons of cigarettes — after removing a window in the garage.

Thirty miles per hour is a reckless speed, according to the Ontario Safety League. That is, it is reckless on a freeway — recklessly slow. For maximum safety on any kind of road, keep up with the flow of other traffic. If you drive at 30 m.p.h. when other traffic is overtaking, or trying to, at 60 m.p.h., you endanger yourself, as well as others.

GARBAGE DAY

(By Johnny Moon)

To you now a song I will sing-o
All about the cans we do swing-o
On the streets here and there:
Cold, snow, rain or fair —
It's the garbage from places we collect-o.

Thursday pick-up is done from the west-o.

On Friday the same job, on the east-o.

But Saturday sure is the best
For we are paid and we rest —
After the two hard days work-o.

Sam Danford is the man who owns the truck-o.

Jack Jarvis is the driver and boss-o.
He's a hard working man,
And he knows the towns plan —
He's the ranger did ride the big horse-o.

It's a job there's never an end to —
If left undone it sure is a mess-o.
It's no job for a king,
But you find many a thing —
The job's dirty but gotta be done-o.

MECHANICAL FRUIT HARVESTER

Harvesting fruit by hand is a time-consuming job.

Scientists at the Canada Department of Agriculture's Summerland (B.C.) Research Station have developed a machine that shakes limbs and catches fruit on vinyl-coated fabric.

The machine has been tested on cherry, crabapple, prune, clingstone peach and apple trees. In most cases, fruit damage was not too severe for the processing industry. In some cases, the fruit was acceptable for the fresh market.

The main problem was that some fruit remained on the tree even after excessive shaking. In general, this fruit was immature or was growing on long willowy limbs that didn't carry the shaker vibrations. These difficulties could be overcome by waiting for the fruit to mature and by pruning.

REAR-END COLLISIONS MOST COMMON CRASHES

Rear-end collisions are among the most common types of traffic crashes, but they never would occur if all drivers took care in following other cars, says the Canada Safety Council.

The Council also notes that safe following distances are not hard to determine and provide a constant margin of safety.

The basic rule is to stay back one car-length for each ten miles per hour of speed. Even better is to remain two seconds behind the car in front — watch the rear of that car passing a sign, telephone pole or crack in the road, and start counting, "one thousand and one, one thousand and two."

If the front of your car doesn't pass the same check point in that time, you have plenty of room between the two cars.

If another car is following too closely, slow down. Usually, that other car will pass, but even if it does not, your speed can be reduced to a level which will mean minimum damage if the other car runs into the rear.

HIGHWAYS ARE CLOSED BY DRIFTS

BARRIE — All major highways in central Simcoe County were closed to traffic yesterday by provincial police as high winds piled deep drifts across roads, isolating this city of more than 20,000.

OPP Sgt. Bernie Cain of the Barrie detachment said "at one point every road in and out of Barrie was blocked this morning".

The weather disturbance that is creating the wind stretches from Thornton, 10 miles south of here to Oro, 15 miles north and from Lake Simcoe on the east to the Nottawasaga Bay, the southern part of Georgian Bay.

We all are seeking power

It's been three weeks since Pierre Trudeau lashed the English-language press for its "pretty crummy behavior" in covering the Commonwealth summit conference, but there's still no hint that his attack has stimulated public debate on the question of individual privacy, as he hoped.

Granted, his tantrum did raise some controversy, but only of the most shallow and superficial kind.

Some Canadians agreed with the Prime Minister that journalists in London behaved like "sleazebags" and "gossip-hungry Peeping Toms." Others took the side of the press, and some, as Trudeau's statement that the police should investigate the private lives of reporters, labelling this the most irresponsible thing ever said by a Prime Minister.

But few, it seems, were willing to take seriously Trudeau's claim that his attack on the press was prompted by a genuine desire to stimulate public debate on individual rights to privacy. Blame it on our cynical age, but most Canadians tended to attribute his outburst to personal petulance, rather than any public-spirited motive.

It's a pity that Trudeau wasn't taken more seriously, for there is a need to examine not only the question of privacy, but of individual freedom as a whole.

This is the age of the Big Grab, when an increasing number of institutions and organizations are growing in power, augmenting their membership and strengthening their bargaining positions.

The Federal Government, for example, has become a Hydra-headed creature of civil servants, performing things that were once the sole concern of individuals. . . . and meanwhile, the provinces are sipping at the Federal heels, seeking a bigger bite of power.

Labor unions, like government departments, are ever growing in size. Some will soon become so large that a single strike could cripple the nation — a situation that has already badly damaged the British economy.

In law, Canada is unlikely to become a police state, but there is danger in police eagerness for the power to tune in to people's private lives, with the use of electronic eavesdropping devices and wiretapping equipment. Examining this issue in the omnibus bill to amend the Criminal Code, some observers wondered whether the average policeman today has either the educational qualifications or liberal arts background to appreciate the subtleties of the situation.

Another privacy being threatened is the traditional seal of secrecy between lawyer and client, for the time being in the U.S. at least. An American Bar Association committee recently recommended that lawyers in the future should be permitted to reveal confidential information about their clients in response to a court order.

Once it was that students came to school hungry for education . . . now they come hungry for power. In some parts of the world, student groups have become near-terrorist organizations, willing to burn and injure — even kill — to increase their power on campus. It's been less violent in Canada, although the power play is obviously in full gear, to force school governing bodies to accept student members.

It appears some Canadian women on welfare feel they, too, must "think big". A Federal official recently warned that women welfare recipients may organize into a pressure group, seeking more power to exert against local agencies. Such an organization already exists in the U.S.

And so, obviously, power is a commodity much in demand. Unfortunately, power can neither be born nor can it exist in a vacuum. It must be taken away from someone, and exerted over someone. Every time some group has gained power, it means you — the individual — has lost some.

Trudeau's call for a debate on personal freedom — regardless of how serious he was when he made it, has merit, and its implications extend far beyond the question of privacy in his or reporters' love lives.

Children are such appealing little citizens that this newspaper and Mr. Roy Carson, Carson Studios, Port Hope, have combined to present to our reading public photos of our local children in their most appealing poses. If sufficient co-operation and interest is shown by the citizens, it will be possible for Mr. Carson to arrange for a free sitting for your little tot and for this newspaper to run pictures of "Our Citizens of Tomorrow" in the near future.

The speaker at the Kiwanis meeting last Friday was Don McKinnon, well known Junior Farmer speaker. Don used the same address as he gave in Junior Farmer competitions, "The Road to Somewhere", and left his listeners with plenty of food for thought. He was introduced by Dorian Stewart and thanked on behalf of the members by Rayburn McCoy. Six new members, Ed. Arbie, Harry Brown, John Hewitt, Bud Crawford, Doug Pigen and John Rankin, were inducted into the club. The ceremony was performed by Ted Naylor.

Deaths — Robertson Richardson Hannah, Cooper, died at the home of his son, Charles Hannah, Frankford, on Tuesday, January 26th., in his 85th year. He is survived by his son and a daughter, Mrs. Stanley (Atha) Rollins, Cooper.

News of the sudden death of Mr. John R. Bronson came as a shock to the friends in the community although he had reached the advanced age of 81 years. A son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Chester Bronson, Bannockburn, Mr. Bronson came of a large family, most of whom have predeceased him. He is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Jessie Allmayer and six grandchildren.

THIS IS CANADA! From Newfoundland to Victoria snow and cold has immobilized many Canadians. During the week of January 26th to February 1st., 1969, officers of the Madoc Detachment, Ontario Provincial Police, investigated 38 occurrences, one break and enter, two thefts, one assault, with 34 miscellaneous occurrences.

There were six motor vehicle accidents investigated, all of a property damage nature. Thirty-nine vehicles were safely checked, forty-nine traffic warnings given, with twenty charges laid under the authority of the Highway Traffic Act.

PEDESTRIANS:- Here's an important reminder from your PROVINCIAL POLICE:- When you walk where there are no sidewalks, DAY or NIGHT, ALWAYS walk so you're facing oncoming traffic. Don't turn your back on a driver who might not see you in time to avoid hitting you. WALK so you're facing oncoming cars and be ready to step aside to safety whenever necessary.

Eighteen hours were spent in Magistrate's Court, Madoc, with Judge R. C. Jackson registering 22 convictions.

Three thousand, four hundred and seventy miles of area roads were patrolled during 460 working hours.

MOTORISTS — You are reminded that you must stop for School Buses, when they are loading and unloading School Children on a highway where the speed zone is in excess of 35 m.p.h.

REMINISCING

Taken from the Review files of 50, 25 and 15 years ago.

50 YEARS AGO

January 30th., 1919.

Mr. Robert Martin of the 8th Concession of Huntingdon reported seeing countless numbers of polly-wogs swimming in the rapids of a spring creek at the back of his farm, and although he has been living on this farm for 19 years he has never seen anything like this before. The polly-wogs were fully an inch and a half long.

Mr. Chesley Pitts has just returned from a five week's trip to Florida, where he spent a week with Mr. W. J. Atkins, who gave him a royal welcome. Mr. Atkins has an orange grove near his home of 10 acres bearing and five acres of young trees. He has a fine garden of onions, lettuce, and strawberries, etc. Everything grows very rapidly. Mr. Pitts also visited Mr. Chas. Ross, who is living in town. He found Chas. and family well and feasting daily on grapefruit, oranges and tangerines grown in his own back yard. Mr. Pitts is so well impressed with the country he intends as soon as he can make arrangements here, to move to Florida.

Once more Madoc was aroused by the joyful tunes of the Madoc band playing "When Your Boy Comes Back to You", proclaiming to all that again Madoc was welcoming home two of our heroes, Ptes. Gladstone Bassett and Herbert White of Eldorado. Music by the Band and words of welcome spoken by T. H. Thompson, M.P., and Rev. T. H. Hall, voiced the sentiment of the people.

Hymenial — A pretty wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. Lough, Eldorado, on January 16th., when Edythe Jane (Jennie) Brown, cousin of Mrs. Lough, became the bride of Kenneth Byrral Chambers, Rev. A. C. He of Eldorado officiated. The young couple were unattended.

A pretty wedding was solemnized at the bride's home, Cooper, on Monday, January 13th., when Addie Rachel, only daughter of Mrs. W. West, became the bride of Mr. Harry Arthur Venn of New York State. The service was conducted by Rev. A. C. He of Eldorado. Mr. L. Herbertson of Queensboro, cousin of the bride, provided the wedding music. The bride was given away by her uncle, Mr. John B. Shaw, of Eldorado, and was attended by her cousin, Miss Annie Shaw. Mr. Melvin King of Cooper was groomsman.

"This is Straight at You, Dad". — We've been out here a year now, my outfit, and we're not complaining. There isn't an ounce of quitting blood in the whole gang. We don't think there is any doubt about how this thing will end. It's just that we're a little confused. What are we coming back to, Dad? What kind of country is Canada going to be after the War. We read a lot about the post-war world and we know we are fighting a nasty attempt to control the world. That's okay with us, and more so since we've marched into some of these countries and seen the poverty and hardship you know nothing about. But, after that, what about where we live, that's what we're interested in. How's the country going to be run? Will a man have the opportunity to make the kind of life he wants to live? We have read a lot of words out here that just don't make sense to us. Maybe it's all so simple to us, because it has become real, this thing we call freedom. We think the great men of our country who organized and produced the great machine for war can organize and produce equally well for peace. It is a simple thing we want, Dad. It's just this: to come home to work at the job of our choice and earn enough to live on and raise a family; the full opportunity to make the most of everything Canada has to offer.

Births — In Huntingdon Twp. on January 28th., 1944, to Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Fleming, a daughter.

In Madoc Twp. on Thursday, February 3rd., 1944, to Mr. and Mrs. Earl Blakely, a daughter.

Deaths — Mrs. Ida Elizabeth Maybee, Belleville, formerly of Madoc, widow of N. Marshall Maybee, Madoc, died Sunday, January 30th., in her 89th year. Surviving her are one brother, Mr. W. C. Sills, Belleville, and a grandson, Mr. George Maybee, Belleville.

Doris Clark

His kiss turns me cold

DEAR DORIS — I have lived at home all my life and am very close to my parents. I am 21 and my fiancé is 20. Although he is mature for his age, I feel I am not ready to handle the responsibilities of marriage.

How will I begin to tell him how I feel? I do not want to hurt him as I would feel so responsible for anything he might do. Please tell me, am I better to live a lie or be truthful and accept the consequences?

I would still like to go out occasionally to find out if I really love him, but I cannot expect him to sit around and wait forever for me to make up my mind. He is good company but I seem to turn cold whenever he kisses me or tries to make advances.

Not Romantic Any More

DEAR NOT — You insult both of you when you keep up a farce. You might be the cause of your own unhappy marriage — and of his unhappiness. Had you thought of that?

Better come clean. But consider this: A sheltered daughter feels immature because she has not tested and tried herself. You will probably meet marriage head-on and do fine, with the Right Guy.

I wouldn't object to keeping in touch. You may miss him more than you think. But mix with some others too.

DEAR DORIS — I am not employed and haven't been since I got married 40 years ago — unless you count raising six boys as being employed.

I am wondering if it is possible to make contributions to the Canada Pension Plan so as to be eligible for both it and the Old Age Security in 1972, when I turn 65.

Information Please

DEAR INFORMATION — Sorry, no. The C.P.P. benefits are based on the amount you have contributed to the plan, and you can only contribute if you are employed. In contrast, the O.A.S. benefits are available to everyone of pension-able age. But you do have to apply.

DEAR DORIS — My parents will soon celebrate their silver wedding. Although the thought terrifies me, I would like to get up and say a few words of appreciation for what they have done for my husband and me. Could you offer any suggestions?

Wobbly Knees

DEAR WOBBLY — Brave soul! Here's how:

"When Mom and Dad took undying oaths of allegiance before a minister 25 years ago, I'm sure they never dreamed what the next 25 years would bring. They have been wonderfully happy with each other — and they have done four of us the favor of bringing us into their serene, well-ordered world."

"Not only that, but after raising us and getting us married, they still stayed in there pitching. I don't know what my George and I would have done without them to get us launched."

Follow this with an amusing anecdote, or something warm and human which indicates some of the fun you have had because of them; then turn and congratulate them on a quarter century of marital progress.

DEAR DORIS — My 15-year-old brother is a great guy. He's exceptionally bright, a good athlete, a neat dresser, well-behaved, etc.

The only thing which ruins the whole effect is that he constantly cracks his knuckles. He just won't, or can't, stop. It's driving all of us crazy. We've asked him, begged him, and threatened him, without success. What should we do?

Wit's End

DEAR WIT'S END — It's one of those excess-energy things, like bed-rocking, head-banging, nail biting. Better ignore it.

One of these days a girl he adores will tell him it's a corny habit, and he'll stop — just like that!

ST. JOHN'S W.A.

The February meeting of St. John the Baptist Anglican A.C.W. was held at the home of Mrs. Anton Delange on Monday, February 3rd., at two o'clock. There were eight ladies present.

The meeting opened with a Devotional time of Prayer and Bible reading. The Scripture was taken from St. John, Chapter one, verses 1-5 and 11-14, read by Mrs. Ann Griffin. These verses showed how "In the Beginning was God, and how God has to be in all our lives and in everything we do; God's hand is upon us in lightness or in darkness."

The minutes of the last meeting were read, and the Treasurer's report given, showing a healthy bank balance to start the year with. This was followed by roll call.

The business for discussion was to make plans for the Valentine Tea on Friday, February 14th., and also tentative plans for the Annual Pancake supper on Tuesday, February 18th., held by the men of the church, with the ladies giving a helping hand where needed. The schedule for church cleaning was made up until the end of June.

At the end of the business meeting, Mrs. Kay Thompson closed with prayer, followed with the grace in unison. Our hostess served a lovely lunch and a social time was enjoyed by all.

Mrs. Ann Griffin thanked Mrs. Delange for a very enjoyable and worthwhile afternoon.

DAIRY MANUFACTURING COURSES FOR 1969

A class of 22 students is enrolled in the 1969 Three-Month Course in dairy manufacturing at the Dairy Division of the Kemptville College of Agricultural Technology. This marks the seventy-fifth year for this type of instruction, the Kemptville course being a continuation of similar courses begun at Kingston in 1894. The 1969 group of students includes one each from Manitoba and New Brunswick with the remainder being from Ontario.

Dairy plant workers who enroll for these courses receive instruction in butter and cheese manufacturing, the processing of fluid and concentrated milk and the related sciences of chemistry and microbiology. Many of those attending this year's course are doing so through training allowances paid them under the Occupational Training for Adults Program. These costs are paid through the Canada Manpower Centre at Prescott, while the educational program is supervised by the Ottawa office of the Ontario Department of Education.

During its first week, the instruction was directed entirely toward milk grading when the above group was augmented by eight plant milk graders and 22 bulk tank milk graders. This period of training and the successful completion of written and practical examinations are required by all Ontario milk graders.

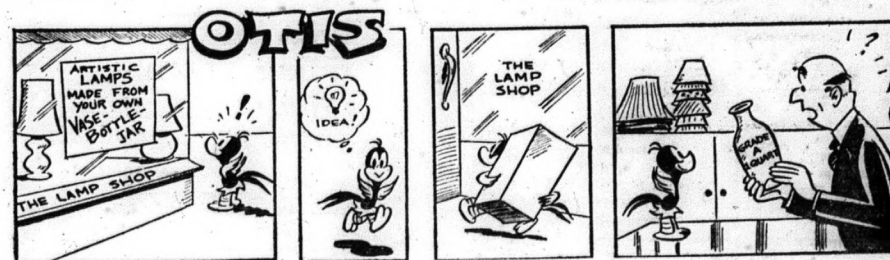

The woman who henpecks her husband is likely to find him listening to some chick.

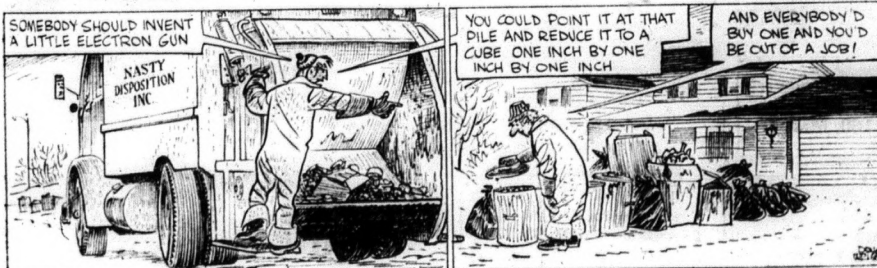

TENSION INCREASING. A deep sense of grief and tragedy has spread across Israel following assassinations and executions of Jews in Arab lands. Israel Premier Levi Eshkol has said: "The Lord will avenge their blood" when questioned about the killings of his people. Political observers fear another Mid-East War is close at hand.

LOOSE DOGS KILLING DEER

Dogs running at large are ravaging the wintering deer population in this forestry district.

Department of lands and forests officials said they have investigated numerous complaints of dogs attacking deer in recent weeks.

Examination of deer carcasses confirm the attackers as dogs, not wolves and all sportsmen in the area now are being warned to keep hunting hounds confined.

Midwinter is a critical period for the deer population and the new threat adds to the hazards of survival.

Weather conditions are part of the problem, say foresters.

Snow in the bush is overlaid by a heavy crust. The layer is heavy enough to hold a dog, but a deer in flight will plunge through, becoming snarled in heavy drifts.

Loose-running hounds may flush a deer from swamp or bush, forcing it across open land where the scent — and pursuit — is taken up by farm dogs.

Deer which evade the chase often die from exhaustion.

"Most of the carcasses we have examined were last year's fawns", says a lands and forests officer.

He warned that, by law, dogs found chasing deer can be shot.

BE WISE — TAKE CARE OF YOUR EYES

"If I had perfect vision for only a minute, even a garbage can would look beautiful", said Ed Wheeler, Field Secretary for The Canadian National Institute for the Blind, in a White Cane Week interview. He was reminding readers of the need to value good vision and to take care of it. He pointed out that six Canadians lose their sight each day, for a total of more than 2,000 a year.

"That means that within four hours of reading this article", he said, "someone in Canada will become blind".

To underline the importance of good eye health, CNIB and the Canadian Council of the Blind, sponsors of White Cane Week, are devoting this annual education period to sight protection and blindness prevention.

Sometimes the cause of blindness is beyond personal control. Diabetes is high on the list of causes, particularly among younger people. It affects the retina of the eye. "But CNIB is sponsoring several medical research programs on diabetic blindness and one day someone will solve this serious problem", the CNIB man said. "Appreciation of good vision cannot help here, but there are many areas where quick action and an awareness of good eye health go hand in hand".

He described a gardener, who, one day last summer, was spraying weeds.
The spray-gun broke loose while in operation and shot the chemicals into the gardener's face. His eyes were his first thought, and he wasted no time in washing them out with clear water.

"As a result, that man enjoys full sight", the CNIB man said.
In contrast, he told of a man who was using a power saw in his basement workshop. The blade hit a hidden nail and a fragment of the metal went into one eye. "That man today has only one eye", the field secretary continued. "If he had valued his vision, he would have put on safety glasses before turning the switch."

"Be Wise, Take Care of Your Eyes", is this year's White Cane Week slogan, but if the CNIB had its way, it would be first in any set of ten commandments for good health.

HOMEMAKING CLUB

The first meeting of the Crookston
4-H Homemakers was held on February 1st, 1969, at the home of Mrs.

Gary Wickens.

The business consisted of the election of officers. The girls chose as their President, Jean Aylesworth; Vice President, Barbara Bronson; and Press Reporter, Joanne Francis.
For the roll call, each girl gave her name, birth date and grade at school.
Discussion was on the Story of Embroidery and colours and colour schemes, also the "learning stitches" article to be made and the contents of the girl's Embroidery Work Box.
Some suggestions were made for a "free choice" article.

Group work consisted of making and cutting out a full-size replica of our "learning stitches" article on brown paper.

THREE MADOC BUSINESS PROPERTIES CHANGE HANDS

Three business transactions of considerable interest took place recently when three established businesses or properties on Madoc's main street changed hands.

The restaurant operated by Mr. Sid Reynolds closed its doors last Saturday and the lease taken up by Kincaid Bros. Mr. Reynolds plans to dispose of the complete contents of the restaurant by public auction to be held on Wednesday, February 19th.

He has also sold his home on Durham Street to Mr. Ron Hyde, and plans to sell the contents by public auction, to be held March 1st. Mr. Reynolds informed the Review his plans for the future are indefinite. He is leaving this area and may wind up somewhere in the south, possibly California.

Kincaid Bros. I.G.A., Madoc, is expanding. Kel Kincaid has announced that he has acquired the lease of the restaurant next door in order to enlarge both the sales area of his store and the backroom preparation areas.

Mr. Kincaid said that in the process of expansion, he plans to install updated equipment to better serve the needs of his customers.

Most of the newly acquired space will be used for storage and preparation area, Mr. Kincaid said. But an additional 720 feet of sales area will bring total sales area of Kincaid's I.G.A. to nearly 4,000 square feet.

Mr. George Duffin has sold his three-storey building in which he conducted his Home Furnishings business to Mr. Murray Lawton, owner of the Canadian Tire Associate Store business. Mr. Duffin plans to dispose of his stock of merchandise in a selling-out sale, the date to be announced later.

Mr. Lawton takes possession of the building in April, when he intends to move his Canadian Tire business from its present location on St. Lawrence Street to his new building on Durham Street.

Last week, Mr. Nick Love purchased the pool room business in the McCoy block, which he is now operating.

Subscription Notice

Once again we wish to draw to the attention of our subscribers postal regulations regarding subscriptions which are in arrears. These regulations make it impossible for us to send papers to subscribers who have failed to renew their subscriptions. As a result, we have been forced to cancel a number of subscriptions this week.

The label on the paper indicates the month and the year to which subscriptions are paid. If your label reads prior to '69, your subscription has expired and should be renewed at once. Your prompt attention to this matter will be appreciated by the publisher.

POST OFFICE ANNOUNCES NEW BOX LOBBY HOURS

The Post Office Department has selected Madoc Post Office as one of those to be used in conducting an experiment on the feasibility of keeping lock box lobbies open continuously, 24 hours a day, seven days a week.

If the experiment is successful, the additional hours of service will permit many boxholders, who may now find difficulty in getting to the Post Office during the present hours, the opportunity of picking up mail at their convenience. This does not mean, however, that mail will be sorted to the boxes more often. It will continue to be sorted during the normal operating hours when staff is on duty at the office for that purpose.

MADOC OLD TIMERS WIN TWO GAMES

The Madoc Old Timers defeated the Trenton Old Timers last night in the Madoc Arena 6-4, before a fair crowd. In Tweed last Friday night, they walked away with a 3-1 decision over Tweed during Tweed's Winter Carnival.

MADOC AND DISTRICT SNOWMOBILE CLUB ORGANIZED

On Tuesday, February 11th, a meeting was held in the Madoc Kiwanis Centre (Armoury). More than 40 enthusiastic snowmobilers from Madoc to Gilmour turned out to discuss the formation of a snowmobile club here.

The meeting was sponsored by the local Chamber of Commerce and Mr. Verse McMurray outlined the advantages of a snowmobile club. He said two kinds of clubs could be formed: a social club, or one to attract outsiders to the area, which could affect the economy of the district. If the latter type of club was formed and trails opened up to join with existing trails in adjoining areas, money was available from both local townships and from the Highlands of Hastings Tourist Association.

After considerable discussion, it was decided to organize a club and the following are the officers that were elected: President, Gib Bailey; Vice President, Walter Armstrong; Secretary, Wayne Hagerman; Treasurer, David Burnside; Directors, Joe Brintnell, Claude Davidson, Lorne Irwin, Fred Rollins, Clayton Smith, Harry Brown, Don Sprackett, Merton Hamm, Ken Smith, Murray Lawton.

A further meeting will be held in the same place tonight by the executive to discuss the completion of marked trails, advertising and publicity and the possibility of a club rally.

Membership for this season will be one dollar per person or per family, so join now and support your new club.

An answer to a letter

DEAR DORIS — Someone who signed herself Hurt, was complaining about their friends who are laughing about the home they are building themselves, saying why do they need such a great big place and that it looks like a hotel. She can't understand why people are so unkind.

I'd like to tell her why. This person wants to outdo everybody and let us know it every chance she has, always trying to prove how much better her home is. This thing is going on ever since they began building it. All of us are more than happy with what we've got. It is a home best suited for each of us.

So please tell us, how do you defend yourself without sounding jealous?

Other Side Of The Fence

DEAR OTHER — The perfect defence is to act as serene as you feel. Why deflate anyone who needs to feel important about an ambitious project? Praise makes more friends than criticism. (Not to mention that the "Hurt" who wrote in lives far from you.)

DEAR DORIS — I am a teacher. At Christmas a little boy in my class brought me a package wrapped in brown paper for a present. It said on the outside "Grape Juice; keep in a cool place." I never opened it until I got home.

It wasn't grape juice, but it was a bottle of homemade wine. All January I've tried to decide if I should tell my principal or just forget all about it. I don't want the wine, but I don't want to cause any unnecessary fuss about it either.

Dilemma

DEAR DILEMMA — Then don't. Families (New Canadians, usually) who make their own wine are proud of their product and compliment you in making you a gift of it.

No need to do anything but let him know you appreciate the thoughtfulness. If you don't want the wine, do you know someone who does?

DEAR DORIS — For my wedding I have chosen matron and maid of honor, bridesmaid and flower girl. We are also having a ring-bearer.

The problem is that I have two other girl friends. I want them to play a special part in my wedding, but I feel that I cannot have any more attendants as it would make the wedding party too large.

Are there any other special functions that these two girls could perform; if possible, functions that could be performed both at the church and at the reception?

Hoping

DEAR HOPING — How about getting them to help with the trousseau tea? This is a warmly informal affair which they would enjoy having a part in. One could escort guests from room to room, explaining about gifts; one could handle the visitor's book, or serve tea.

At the ceremony, there's not much that isn't done by the ushers and best man. But would they like to come to your house ahead of time and be in on those exciting last minute details, like arranging your veil or touching up your make-up?

Confidential to Why Not Cheat? — I can think of several reasons: (1) It won't give you the knowledge you'll be needing later, as studying does. (2) It will not indicate to your instructor just how great your need is for his help. (3) One dishonest act makes the next one easier, until you gradually lose your sense of right and wrong.

One prominent theologian declares that cheating offenses, in the first instance, not because it is "wrong," but because it is a prime example of ruthless concentration on your own success.

Confidential to Ready to Blow? Have a heart-to-heart with your mother. Share with her your own big problem, letting her feel you need encouragement.

I question her being too tired. Isn't what she needs a reason for living? Fifty-nine is not old, these days. Put a job in her hands, or a new hobby. I'm betting she'll rise to the bait.

FOR A MORE INTERESTING PAPER

To keep the members of the community informed about each other's activities, this paper depends to a large extent on its staff of correspondents, its contributors and its advertisers. There is always room for improvements, however, and this can be affected if the members of our Family of Subscribers take the following suggestions which we noticed in one of our exchanges:

"There has never been a newspaper printed that satisfied everybody. But there is a very simple method by which better newspapers can be produced and that is for those who subscribe to them to take an individual interest in seeing that they get more local and personal news. Not that you are expected to become a reporter when you become a subscriber, but because the newspaper stands as the exponent of all that is good for your community and because civic pride should, therefore, lead you to encourage such an institution.

"If you have visitors, if you have been a visitor, if you are going to be one, your neighbours are sure to be interested about it. Tell them through your home town paper. Every little item of a local or personal nature helps just that much more to make a still better newspaper and getting it to the editor requires very little exertion on your part. That is how you can help make your newspaper more interesting, and you are invited to start doing so at once.

"Do as many others are doing: Write the item on a sheet of any kind of paper, sign it, hand it in at the office, or drop it into the post office with our address on it. Do not seal it, but mark "Printers Copy" on the envelope, put a five cent stamp on it and mail it from any point in Canada."

Church reports, society reports and association activities should also be reported fully in these columns and we depend to a large extent on the secretaries of these various bodies to keep us informed of newsworthy happenings. The daily newspapers record world-wide events — the weeklies, the simple, homey little things of your community and our community, but the great difference is in the friendly, sympathetic interest shown by the weeklies as against the impersonal policy of the dailies.

We will appreciate your co-operation.

THE GOOD DRIVER

Opponents of the proposed new legislation giving police the power to insist on motorists taking breathalyzer tests, in cases of suspected impairment, suggest that this will be an infringement of personal liberty, and that the breathalyzer will force individuals into a criminal record.

"Not so," says Fred H. Ellis, General Manager of the Ontario Safety League. "The record will not come from the machine, but from the offence — that is, from driving in a condition that imposes an unacceptable threat to other road users. The machine will simply make it more difficult for the driver to conceal the offence, and avoid the consequences.

Compulsory breath tests are no more a limitation of personal rights than compulsory photographing or fingerprinting of suspects; it is a matter of factual verification. Most regulations restrict personal freedom in some way. Laws that prevent you from driving at 100 m.p.h. on city streets, or putting poison by your garbage can to kill the neighbour's dog, are restrictions on personal right of action.

Surely, limitation of individual rights cannot logically be condemned without weighing the benefits. Whenever compulsory tests for suspected driver impairment have been introduced, the drop in traffic accidents has been substantial. Britain, the latest country to bring in such legislation, reports that in the first twelve months traffic deaths dropped by 14.5 per cent, serious injuries by 11.4 per cent, compared with the preceding 12 months.

Applying those percentages to Canada's traffic toll would result in an annual saving of 785 lives, 16,500 injuries. The immense economic saving would include release of 1,400 of the hospital beds that are now tied up permanently by traffic accident victims.

The question comes down to this: are 785 Canadian lives and 16,500 injuries an 'acceptable' yearly sacrifice to help drinking drivers avoid the consequences of breaking the law? Let those who think about this question consider if their answer would be the same if they knew that their own relatives, or friends, were among the 785 people whose lives are in the balance in the coming year."

BRIDE IN BERMUDA. One of the world's most romantic settings is Horseshoe Bay on the island of Bermuda, and naturally, when photographer June Sauer looked for a picture of a new bride, she visited Bermuda. GRAHAM BELL NEW CHAIRMAN

Graham Bell, Marmora and Lake Township representative, was named chairman of the Moira River Conservation Authority at the inaugural meeting held last week at Thurlo Township Hall.

The new chairman succeeds Gerald O. Irvine of Sidney Township, who is retiring from the authority after 11 years service.

James Spry of Rawdon was re-elected vice-chairman. The 1969 authority executive committee consists of the chairman and vice-chairman, along with advisory board chairman Leslie MacLaren, reforestation, Mrs. R. Jeffrey, education extension, Cecil B. Ketcheson, conservation areas, Guy Hughes, water control, and W. H. Armstrong, fish and wildlife.

The new authority chairman has been a member for about seven years serving most of the time as chairman of the water control advisory board.

The authority approved a local levy of $25,000 for 1969, up slightly more than $300 from last year. The city of Belleville, with a levy of $14,945, pays more than 60 per cent of the total levy, the balance being divided on an assessment basis between the other 16-member municipalities.

The overall authority budget for 1969 is $354,137 of which $301,092 is expected to come from provincial and ARDA grants. The authority had a $16,845 surplus last year, resulting mainly from the fact that the planned Deerock Lake reservoir dam did not go ahead as expected.

Again this year, the big share of over-all authority expenses, $304,000, is slated for the Deerock project.

Belleville Mayor J. Russell Scott, expressed his appreciation to the authority for the work now being done in Belleville which he said was more in keeping with the city's 60 per cent levy assessment.

Earlier in the meeting it was noted by the retiring president that the authority had authorized a survey of the Moira River from the river mouth to Foxboro, which had been requested by the city.

Also last year the authority constructed a seasonal dam on the river opposite Fry Park, just inside the city limits.

Advisory board chairmen reviewed last year's authority activities and outlined programs to be completed this year.

Retiring chairman Gerald Irvine hoped that the Deerock Lake dam would go ahead this year. He said tenders for clearing the approximately 500 acres to be flooded were now being called.

COOPER U.C.W.

The regular meeting of the Cooper U.C.W. was held at the home of Mrs. Allan McCoy, with an attendance of eleven.

The meeting opened by the Unit Leader, Mrs. Gordon Holmes, reading a poem entitled, "Hands". The Roll Call, suggestions for the new program, was answered too.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved.

A letter of thanks for a rose bowl from Alberta McCoy was read by Mrs. Allan McCoy.

The Worlds Day of Prayer will be held at the Church on March 7.

The first general meeting of the charge will be held at Queensboro, 26, in the afternoon, with the program by Hazzard's U.C.W. and lunch by Queensboro.

The offering and dedication was by Mrs. F. Bailey.

Three new members paid their fees. Worship period was given by Mrs. F. Bailey, the theme being "Today seems so long, so strange, so bitter and will soon be a forgotten yesterday."

The Call to Worship was Mark 9:13. Hymn 313, Make Me a Captain, Lord, was repeated by all. Meditation followed by prayer.

Study Book on China was conducted by Mrs. Maurice Reynolds, with the theme, "To understand China and the Chinese People". A contest, "What is Your Opinion about China?", was answered by all.

The meeting closed with the Mizpah Benediction, after which lunch was served by the hostess and her assistants.

DRIVING WITH LOW BEAM HEADLIGHTS HAZARDOUS

Winter's short days means that more driving is done in the dark than at any other time of year and car lights become highly important.

Drivers are urged to have their lights checked — make sure they are all working properly and that headlights are properly aligned.

A particular hazard in night driving is travelling at a speed which is too fast for the headlights.

Most car headlights on low beam will only illuminate the road 100 feet ahead and it becomes unsafe to drive at more than 30 miles per hour except on well-lit expressways, because at this speed it takes the average driver 90 feet to stop if it becomes necessary.

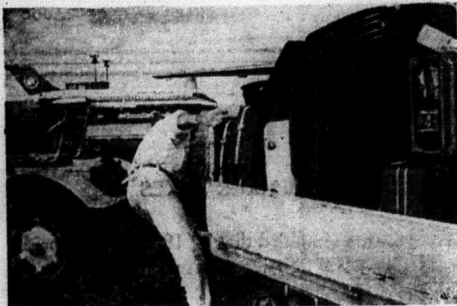

The high beam will throw light ahead about 350 feet and 60 miles per hour becomes too fast for the lights because it takes the average driver 370 feet to stop at this speed.

Keep night speeds within the range of the headlights — don't drive into trouble.

Monarchy or Republic?

That Canadians have cultural and historical ties with Britain and France no one will deny, but some believe it's time Canada stopped playing the role of a schizophrenic child adulating its two mothers. Surely, they would suggest, it's time for the husky 101-year-old baby to break loose of both umbilical cords, and go galumphing off to fend for itself.

English Canadians have found something embarrassingly absurd about the way some French Canadians have fawned over Charles de Gaulle's paternal cooing. They have cringed at the way Quebec has lapped up his flattery, and winced to hear the long-separated relations talk of patching up ancient French family ties.

Similarly, French Canadians have dismissed the allegiance to the British queen as something ostentatiously grotesque, and seen the Crown as something like a child's pacifier. British immigrants clutch it to them, as compensation for being torn from the bosom of Britannia.

Meanwhile, perplexed new and young Canadians scratch their heads and wonder if gushing over a French president is any worse or better than kneeling to an English queen. Ignoring the constitutional niceties, they see both as foreigners, living an ocean apart to the realities of the Canadian environment.

It would be ridiculous to say that French Canadians lost their right to identify with France because of a battle of one morning's duration on the Plains of Abraham in 1759.

It would be equally futile to argue that Queen Elizabeth is legally queen of Canada, while de Gaulle has no legal status. In a democracy, a queen can only remain a monarch if the subjects continue to recognize her as such.

Many in French Canada, and elsewhere, do not. This became forcefully evident a year ago, when the Quebec branch of the Federal Liberal Party voted 135-33 in Montreal to abolish the symbols of monarchy in Quebec.

A few months later, the Throne Speech of September, 1968 upset many monarchists since it contained no mention of the nation's loyalty to the Queen. Prime Minister Trudeau side-stepped the issue, saying it was not the time to debate the monarchy. He did predict that the monarchy will last a long time in Canada, since it is deeply "implanted" in the spirit and heart of Canadians.

Many in the Union Nationale Party in Quebec would like to see it "unplanted". Back in October, Premier Jean-Jacques Bertrand released a working paper on the constitution, suggesting that Canada be made a republic.

This document, presented to the permanent constitutional committee in Ottawa, allowed for the retention of the monarchy in a limited framework, but added, "At this point, a Canadian president heading the union would be more conducive to Canadian unity than is the British Crown."

An interesting alternative to a presidential system, however, is offered by a little-known group called the Canadian Royalist Association, made up mostly of students, and boasting branches in Alberta, Manitoba, and significantly, Ontario and Quebec.

This group favors a separate monarch on the throne of Canada, elected either by citizens or by Parliament. The monarch would be supported by funds which now go to the Governor General and Lieutenant Governors. The British monarchy would remain to head the Commonwealth.

There are Canadians who believe that republicanism is the only solution to seeing the nation divided. Although the monarchy would be missed by many, it must be admitted the charisma of the Crown is fading. The snub to the present Queen during the 1964 visit to Quebec was sharp contrast to the adoration showered on two monarchs during the 1939 Royal Tour.

It's the monarchists' age-old tenet that the Crown is the nation's most effective unifying force. Many would argue that it unites only the people of British descent, and disassociates all the others. If this view keeps gaining ground, then uneasy lies the head that wears the Crown.

Pte. Bert Hayton, Pte. Allore and Nurse Hazel Weiss have returned to Madoc, where they received a royal welcome by our citizens. Miss Weiss, who enlisted from Winnipeg, is now visiting her uncle, Mr. Stephen Wellington.

Fashions in Brief — the newest veils are of tulle, chiffon or chantilly lace. Stitching of silk or wool makes a very attractive trimming. A beautiful cape is of cerise wool jersey lined with gray crepe. There is a tendency to place wings at the back of a hat. Boots will measure eight inches from the breast of the heel. Millinery colourings are dull and one-toned effects are favoured.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Carswell have received word that their son, I.M.S. Kemis Carswell, has been wounded in the arm in Italy.

The following is a copy of the outline of our Farm Machinery Courses to be held in Hastings County February 2nd to February 24th. The purpose of the Course is — 1. To point out repair jobs which are most often encountered on the more important farm machines; 2. To suggest to the farmer some practical methods of having repairs done; 3. To encourage farmers to check over their machines for needed repairs and to order these early; 4. To point out simple, but most important, adjustments necessary for the most efficient and economical operation of various farm machines. Perhaps one hint will make the old mower or binder last one or two years longer, which is very important at this time. Signed, H. L. Fair, Agricultural Representative, Hastings County.

At the regular meeting of the Madoc Village Council held on Monday, February 1st., on motion of West-Stewart, lots 84, 85, 86, 87, 88 and 89 north McNab Street and lot 18, E. Livingstone Avenue, (lots east and west of the Public School Property), offered for sale to the Centre Hastings High School Area Board for $1,000.

Thirty-nine residents of Madoc and vicinity motored to Toronto recently, via Wannamaker chartered bus to attend the mass meeting in Maple Leaf Gardens and were privileged to hear the noted evangelist Billy Graham.

A Lands and Forests Reforestation staff inspecting a cedar swamp in Hungerford Twp. recently flooded by a colony of beaver were surprised to discover a number of other tracks. Otter are usually fairly well scattered in wilder parts of the province. Although the catch has been steadily increasing in the Tweed district, the animals are fairly hard to trap and many licencees fail to get any during a normal season. The catch last year was 88. In fur circles, the otter's dark brown fur is highly regarded and requirements never seem to be satisfied. High prices have been in effect for about seven years, but, in spite of the demand, the animals seem to be holding their own.

DELEGATES SET DATES FOR 18 FAIRS IN 1969

Women outnumbered the men by almost two to one at last Thursday's Central Fairs Association convention held at Club Canara, Belleville. Delegates to the convention represent the 18 fall fairs held in the Central Ontario area. At the meeting, delegates discuss fair programs and set dates for the current year's fairs, hopefully without too much date confliction.

The men's and women's division hold separate meetings to discuss problems and elect new officers, then get together for a joint meeting in the afternoon.

Douglas Rollins, Belleville Fair Director, was named district director for the next two years, with Albert Vader of Coe Hill as the associate district director. Gordon McCubbin of Warkworth was returned as secretary-treasurer.

The women re-elected Mrs. Clayton Thompson of Campbellford as their director. Associate directors are Miss Geraldine Mowers of Napanee and Mrs. Bernard Hunt of Tweed. Mrs. Ronald Hamilton of Sidney Twp. is the junior director and Mrs. W. A. Hume of Campbellford, the secretary-treasurer.

NATIONAL ELECTRICAL WEEK, FEBRUARY 9TH TO 15TH.

How much home are you missing through outdated wiring?

When this house was built it was hard to imagine all the wonderful ways in which electricity would be serving us today. That's why the wiring in so many older homes just isn't adequate for today's needs.

There are many signs. Fuses blowing. Lights dimming. Appliances performing sluggishly. Cluttered extension cords. Not enough outlets.

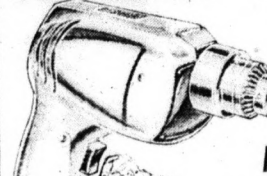

So, if you're planning to modernize your home, think first of the wiring. Have a qualified electrical contractor check it. You'll be surprised at how easily and inexpensively it can be updated. Or just ask your Hydro.

The Name of the Game is Electrical Living.

Agricultural Society Annual Meeting

The annual meeting of the Madoc Agricultural Society was held in the Madoc Council Chambers on Friday, January 31st, with a good number of directors and members in attendance. The President, Harold Harris, in his opening remarks, expressed great pleasure in reporting on a good financial year and thanked everyone for the co-operation he received in helping to make the fair a success. He was pleased that the Board of Directors had made some wise decisions in the past few years. The swine barn, erected in 1965, was a great success to the Society, by providing more accommodation on fair day as well as a source of revenue from the Ontario Hog Producers. The changing of the date from Wednesday to Saturday was done this year and also thought that there should be more of a program on Friday. In his closing remarks, he was certain that the Society could now carry on with a balanced budget. There was another great move for the better. He recommended more painting. The Treasurer was called on by the President to review and explain the financial statement, which showed a great improvement over former years. The gate receipts were a record, the midway concessions were up slightly over last year, as were the membership fees. When the grants are all received, it will be a great encouragement to the directors and all concerned.

The directors in each department gave a report on their division. Mr. Cecil Woods said that the horse classes were very attractive with keen competition, as all sections were filled with entries. The drawing match held on Friday evening drew spectators from a wide area. Fifteen teams from a '75-mile radius participated and took $275 in prizes.

All cattle breeds except holsteins were well represented and provided close competition. There were three Jersey, three Ayrshire, two Hereford and two Short Horn herds entered.

The swine display was one of the best held here with all the pens being filled. One breeder from the Ottawa district entered here for the first time. The sheep entries were about the same as other years and it was recommended that the classes should be revised for another year in order to attract more exhibitors.

One of the best features of the fair was the Junior Department, for which Mr. Tipper, Agricultural Representative, and his staff deserve great credit.

There were 18 4-H Clubs, with total membership of 213 from all parts of the county participating. The money paid out in this department was over $1,100.

Mr. Delbert Carman, who supervised the cheese department, reported a very attractive display arranged by six exhibitors. He recommended more prize money be offered for another year.

The total number of exhibitors at the fair was 140, with 1,660 entries in for competition and was awarded about $4,300.

The Society sponsored three field crop competitions: Hay-Pasture, Oats and Silage Corn last year and these will be held again this year. A commercial feature exhibit on cheese was held on fair day and this will be repeated. The dates for the fair this year will be Sept. 25, 26, 27. The President and Vice President and two ladies chosen by the Ladies' Division were selected as delegates to the district meeting in Belleville and the convention in Toronto.

The President called on Mr. Elmer Woods, as a past president, to conduct the election of officers which resulted as follows: Past President, Harold Harris; President, Carman Downey; 1st. Vice President, to be appointed; 2nd. Vice President, Clarence Farrow; Treasurer, Raeburn Robinson; Secretary, Francis Tobin; Auditors, Percy Rowe, Frank Downey; Directors, Delbert Carman, Ken Holland, Philo Harris, Ernest Holland, Allen Ketcheson, John Thompson, James Miller, Cecil Woods; Associate Directors, Doug Francis, George Harris, Fred Stewart, Ed. Sexsmith, E. T. Naylor, Wm. Stewart, Elliott Burris, Elmer Wood, Allan Thompson, Gordon Chapman, Ross Moorcroft, Cecil Holland, E. F. Meraw, Roy Rollins, Edward Tobin, David Foley, Harold Tokely, David Franks, John Wagner, John Murphy, Barton Haggerty, Tom Burnside, Grant Ketcheson, Harley Blackburn, Doug Pidgeon, Lorne Donly and Harry Govier.

As President-elect, Carman Downey, could not be present due to the death of a relative, Mr. Harris resumed the chair and asked for the same co-operation for the new president as he had received during his term of office. The meeting adjourned and a lunch was served.

NHL is a success story

As the 12-team National Hockey League rounds the turn and heads for the stretch, there are many rather startling events which have happened.

Following are some of them, and not necessarily in order of significance:

The St. Louis Blues have proven they belong. Coach Scotty Bowman should be a 1-5 favorite for coach of the year honors, although Harry Sinden of the Boston Bruins would have to be an even money wager.

In fact, the Blues may become dizzy from the lofty attitude they are orbiting in high above the rest of the Western Division of the NHL. Right now they look to be a playoff contender in the eastern grouping.

Carol Vadnais of the Oakland Seals has to be the most offensive defenseman next to the incomparable Bobby Orr. Montreal goofed when they allowed Vadnais to be picked up in the draft.

He'd be the needed tonic to invigorate the anemic Montreal defence.

Terry Harper has to be, next to Jean Beliveau, the key man with Montreal. Boston centre Derek Sanderson said early in the year that Harper was the most important member of the Habs, and judging from their showing to date, Harper's absence has reduced the Canadiens' defence to mediocrity.

Boston Bruins have ruined the theory that injuries can reduce even a great team's effectiveness. The Bruins are on the way to their first pennant in many years and at one time they have had as many as seven regulars out of the lineup.

Boston has also proven that the best defence is a strong offence. In the early part of the season the Bruins played defensive hockey and were contenders. Today it's wide-open and they're riding high.

The Detroit Red Wings have been staying within playoff range most of the way. Frank Mahovich has returned to the form which made him one of the league's most feared snipers when he was with the Toronto Maple Leafs.

Pittsburgh Penguins should have their franchise shifted... to Vancouver. Poor hockey, poor attendance, poor organization. Three strikes and out.

Red Berenson wasted too many years by being reduced to fill-in and penalty killing roles when he played with Montreal and New York Rangers. He's the kingpin of the St. Louis attack and has blossomed into one of the finest centres in hockey.

Jacques Plante and Glenn Hall have fooled the world, (a la Cassius Clay). These aged veterans have combined their years of experience to give St. Louis the league's outstanding goaltending.

Punch Imlach has not made any trades, giving up promising rookies for veterans on their way out. He must wince looking around the league at Bobby Nevin, Arnie Brown, Brad Park, Rod Seiling, Gary Unger, Jim Pappin, Gerry Desjardins, Dick Duff and Pete Stelmowski.

Johnny Bower, that venerable athlete who has played goal so well and so long for Toronto has finally lost his magic touch. And it was sad that the usually understanding and gentlemanly Toronto fans booed this remarkable athlete from the ice.

Phil Esposito's development into the hottest point-getter in the league.

Consistently below par refereeing by the entire officiating staff.

Bobby Hull to continue playing excellent hockey with a wired jaw.

Gordie Howe. The closeness of the teams in both divisions, excluding St. Louis and Boston.

Yes, for hockey in general, it's a very good year.

4-H MEMBERSHIP INCREASES

Membership in Canada's 4-H Club movement reached a record high of 75,044 in 1968, an increase of 2,352 members over the previous year. In addition, there were more volunteer club leaders at the local level in 1968 than in any former year — 18,037, as compared to 16,535 in 1967.

With an average age of 13.7, the 75,044 members were enrolled in 5,831 regularly organized 4-H Clubs throughout the ten provinces.

In reviewing the year's program, Ralph E. Cudmore of Oakville paid special tribute to the departments responsible for the administration of 4-H in the provinces and to the important contribution of parents and local leaders. As President of the Canadian Council on 4-H Clubs, Mr. Cudmore remarked that "the objectives of the movement, provincially and nationally, are under constant study to insure that 4-H programs are kept progressive and attuned to the times".

TOP COACH? Scotty Bowman of the St. Louis Blues appears to be the odds-on favorite to be named the National Hockey League's Coach-of-the-Year. Bowman has the Blues far in front of their Western Division rivals and experts feel his club would be a contender in the eastern grouping. — TTS Photo

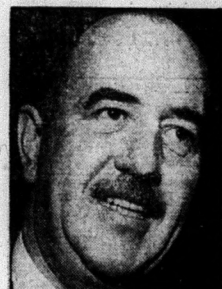

GENESIS

There's a new type of creature emerging on earth. I'll describe him to you for whatever it's worth. He comes out of hiding in winter, I'm told; He rejoices in weather that's terribly cold. He leaves the warm fireside, his wife and his kids; Climbs onto a motor, a belt and two skids. The machine comes to life, he is ready to go. But he can't, cause as yet there is no sign of snow. For the past eighteen days he's been wearing a suit. That is covered in zippers from parka to boot. And mittens, and helmet and mask on his head. "My God," says his wife, "must you wear that to bed?" Then it finally happens, the ground has turned white: He's on his machine and he roars out of sight.

On the flat he'll crouch down, on a corner he'll lean, And they tell me his blood is now pure gasoline. Over hill, over river, through marsh and round trees. Over rock-pile and sand-pit, yet down down on his knees! He looks like he's praying as onward he flies. Is it a monster or man? All we see are his eyes. He'll go charging ahead when it's twenty below, Screaming into a blizzard of onrushing snow. By what demon possessed is this new breed of man? Who finds joy in a snowstorm like no human can? But what happens in summer when snows are not there, Is he out on the porch in an old rocking chair? No. He's inside his house for the whole world to see. Sitting there on his snowmobile, watching T.V.!

Guillaume LaFleche, Marmora, Ontario.

REGIONAL GOVERNMENT TREND QUESTIONED

How watershed conservation authority groups will be affected by the advent of regional government is a question being pondered by members of the Moira River Conservation Authority.

The question was raised at the authority's inaugural meeting at Cannitong last week, but no one had a specific answer.

Tony Jennings, former authority field officer in the local area and now a field officer's supervisor with the department of energy and resources in Toronto, felt that conservation authorities should have some say as to how they would be affected under regional government but he said there were still no definite answers.

He said that Hon. Darcy McKeough, municipal affairs minister, has said that authorities would continue to exist in some form.

Madoc Township representative, Earl Sager, questioned the trend toward regional government which, in his opinion, appeared to be an effort to "kill everything small".

He said there should be one more royal commission to study what democracy really means.

Many, he said, apparently did not know what the term meant.

The trend to expect governments to do everything would eventually destroy democracy, he said.

"It's all right to have dreamers, but we also have to have realists".

In order to get some answers as to how conservation authorities will be affected by regional government, it was decided to send a delegation to the public meeting arranged by Quinte riding member Dr. R. T. Potter at the Club Canara on February 19. At the meeting, municipal affairs minister, Darcy McKeough, will answer questions on regional government.

THREE MEMBERS APPOINTED

Three new members have been appointed this year to the Moira River Conservation Authority. Two of the new members are municipal representatives from Sidney and Hungerford and the third — Dr. R. S. Morphy of Belleville, as one of three provincial government representatives — has been named to succeed Barton Haggerty.

This year's membership is as follows: Belleville, Dr. J. Russell Scott and Alderman Robin Jeffrey; Deloro, Charles Gordanier; Elzevir and Grimsthorpe, John Thompson; Hungerford, Harold Varty; Huntingdon, Harold Thompson; Kaladar, Anglesea and Effingham, Mrs. Lela Casey; Madoc Township, Earl Sager; Madoc Village, W. H. Armstrong; Marmora and Lake, Graham Bell; Rawdon, James Spry; Richmond, Carl Richmond; Sheffield, Paul Burns; Sidney, Ernest Kells; Thurlow, Cecil Ketcheson; Tudor and Cashel, James H. Sprackett; Tweed, Guy Hughes; Tyndinaga, Leslie McLaren.

MADOC JUVENILES ELIMINATED BY STIRLING

The Madoc Juveniles are finished for this season, losing both weekend games to Stirling, who took this series with four games to one.

Friday night in Stirling, the local team lost 8-6 and in Madoc on Sunday Stirling eliminated Madoc, with a score of 8-4. Both games were a hard-fought effort by the short-handed Madoc team. Except for a brief lapse in the second period, Sunday, when the Stirling crew scored four fast goals, the local team battled Stirling on even terms.

In Friday night's game, Wayne Bailey (2), John Pigden, Ralph Francis, John Armstrong and Jackie Smith provided the scoring for the Madoc team, while Ralph Francis and Glen "Hammer" Graham scored two apiece for Madoc in Sunday's game.

This wraps up another season for the Juveniles, many of whom are still midgeet hockey age. All the players except Tom Burnside, Paul Embury and Gary Deline are eligible to play Juvenile another year, and so next year this is a team that will be hard to beat.

This season's record was 5 wins, 4 ties and 5 losses — good enough for a fourth-place finish in the eight-team league, which was composed of "D", "C" and one "B" team.

The Madoc Juveniles would like to take this opportunity to thank all their loyal fans for their support at their games; also for their sponsors and to the following places of business, who sponsored their advertising in the local paper: Nickle's Jewellery, Elliott's Dominion Hardware, Johnston's Rexall Pharmacy, Ken Broad, and anyone else who helped them in any way.

Present were members from both Madoc and Madoc Township Councils who, representing the Highlands of Hastings Tourist Association, answered questions pertaining mainly to the making and marking of trails in the area and the amount of money available to do this.

The following committees were set up: Advertising, Harry Brown, Wayne Hagerman; Property, Ken Smith, Joe Brintnell, Fred Rollins; Trails, Claude Davidson, Don Sprackett, Lorne Irwin; Entertainment, Murray Lawton, M. Hamm; Finance, David Burnside and Walter Armstrong; Membership, Ken Smith, Clayton Smith; Safety, Gordon Pigden.

On Wednesday, February 19th, the following trails were covered and trail markers erected:

Now, for some fun — A snowmobile Rally is planned for the avid snowmobiler and his family on Sunday, March 2nd, at 10:00 a.m. from the B.P. Station on Hwy. 62, north of No. 7 Hwy., to Millbridge. Everyone welcome. For more information, contact the Entertainment Committee.

No golf in Bermuda

Do you think it's possible to spend five days in Bermuda and not play golf? In fact, do you feel it would be possible not to even pick up a golf club?

You say no. Well, friend, it's not easy, but I did it. But I'm getting ahead of myself. Let's start around the beginning of this sad tale and I'll tell you how an avid golfer spent five days attempting to tee up a golf ball.

It was a two-fold trip — business and pleasure (aren't they all). Six of us were on the junket, two males and four females. Two gals weren't interested in golf, the other pair gave every impression of wanting to play nine holes as soon as we arrived.

Arrived in Bermuda around noon on Wednesday and it was raining. That was a good enough excuse to get into the spirit of things at the bar in our hotel. This sojourn lasted until dark and now brings us to Thursday morning.

It was overcast and cool. Too cool to play golf, but not cool enough to interfere with our photographic mission. After lunch the clouds broke and the sun poured through its warm rays of welcome.

Beautiful. Let's head for the fabled Mid-Ocean Golf Club.

Plenty of time for an easy nine holes.

"No," said the photographer, the Fashion Editor, the model, the advertising agency representative. "Yes," said the writer and the company representative. Democracy rules supreme, especially on this island of British tradition.

Anyhow, the four dissenters were females, and their logic was that Friday would be an excellent day for golf. They even went so far as to suggest that we would be "shooting" various pictures at the Castle Harbor Golf Club.

Being chivalrous males, we agreed.

Friday was an ideal golf day. The temperature was in the mid-60s, the sky was bright and a gentle breeze brushed against your cheeks. After breakfast we grabbed our golf jackets and commandeered two taxis to take us on our 15-mile journey.

As we arrived at Castle Harbor the rain began.

On well, we could still do our work inside. Lunch arrived. Off to a famous tavern for a fast ale and a sandwich. The rain stopped and we went back to Castle Harbor.

The next two hours really hurt.

The model was photographed posing in, out, and around an electric golf cart, on the greens, fairways, in front of the pro shop and watching foursores tee off. Talk about being fed off!

Finally, the session ended. It was time to head back to our hotel. I couldn't believe it. How could they do it?

Saturday morning. Our day consisted of photographing beach scenes. It took the full day. No golf.

But wait, Sunday was a free day. We could do what we pleased, and everyone seemed pleased with the suggestion I made about playing a few holes of golf. By this time I would have settled for an hour at a driving range.

Renting motorbikes we headed out for Mid-Ocean.

The girl from the advertising agency, during a coffee stop, slipped on a step and sprained her ankle. She was eliminated from the golf safari. And so was the photographer. She accompanied the agency gal back to the hotel.

Then the Fashion Editor remembered she had an appointment. Three left. The company rep changed his mind and decided to go on a sightseeing trip. The model and I pulled into Mid-Ocean.

As we headed for the pro shop she revealed that she really wasn't a golfer and would I mind if she begged off. It was a perfect day for a swim.

BRIDAL NUDE LOOK. The "nude" look which started in Paris is now even spreading into the area of wedding gowns. The ultra-fashionable summer bride just might be turning up at the Church dressed in this imported French lace gown with beaded neckline and factan sleeves. The creation was designed by Canada's outstanding wedding gown designer David Rea of Toronto.

TRINITY U.C.W.

The general meeting of Trinity U.C.W. was held in the Sunday School rooms on February 5th. Piano music preceded the call to worship, given by the President, Mrs. H. Stickwood. The worship service, prepared by Mrs. Albert Empey, stressed the theme of "Life and Our Part in the Mission of the Church". The Scripture was read by Miss O. Ashe, and the offering was dedicated by Mrs. George Devolin. We must have faith and vision to fulfill the true mission of the church.

Mrs. Albert Empey had charge of the program and gave many interesting facts about the Bible Society. In conclusion, she suggested it might be a worthwhile project to use contributions on White Gift Sunday to purchase Bibles for those countries who need them so badly.

The roll call showed that the inclement weather had kept many members at home. The minutes of the previous meeting were read by the secretary, Mrs. J. McGowan, and the Treasurer's report was given by Mrs. L. Empey.

The correspondence and the recommendations from the executive meeting were discussed. Mrs. Bruce White and Mrs. A. Adams were appointed to act on the Christian Education Committee. It was decided to serve a meal for the Christian Education Committee for the Conference on March 5. World Day of Prayer will be held in Trinity United Church on March 7th, with Mrs. George Devolin as key woman. The proposed budget was accepted. Mrs. J. McGowan reported on the meeting of the Board of Stewards. The reports on the U.C.W. Presbyterial will be given at the next meeting. Mrs. H. Stickwood closed the meeting with this thought, "Choose your rut carefully, for you may be in it a long time", and also thanked Mrs. Empey for her program. Refreshments and a social half hour followed.

The Executive of the Trinity U.C.W. for 1969 is as follows: Hon. President, Mrs. Douglas Heard; Past Pres., Mrs. George Devolin; President, Mrs. Howard Stickwood; 1st. Vice Pres., Mrs. Chas. Derry; 2nd. Vice Pres., Mrs. Harold Brintnell; Secretary, Mrs. Judson McGowan; Treasurer, Mrs. Lindsay Empey; Unit Leaders, No. 1, Mrs. Clayton Holmes, No. 2, Mrs. Harold Brintnell; Social Conveners, Mrs. Perry Brownson, Mrs. Albert Bailey and Mrs. Harry Roscoe.

PUSH-BUTTON TECHNIQUE GETS CARS OUT OF SNOW

A push-button system, permitting a motorist stuck on ice or in snow to apply a traction-improving compound to an auto's rear tires without leaving the driver's seat, is offered as an option by GM of Canada, according to Bus and Truck Transport Magazine.

The system is available on Canadian-made Chevys and Chevelles.

The traction improver, called Liquid Tire Chain, gives the tires up to three times normal traction on ice or packed snow.

The compound will stay on the tires for several miles when driving on snow-covered roads. However, it wears off quickly when travelling at high speeds on hard-surfaced highways.

It is sprayed on the rear tires by vacuum-powered applicators mounted in the car trunk and controlled by a push-button mounted on the instrument panel.

To operate the system, the driver simply depresses the control button, holding it for at least five seconds. This activates the aerosol containers of Liquid Tire Chain, spraying the tires with traction improver through small nozzles over the rear wheels. The four-ounce aerosol cans are said to contain sufficient LTC for ten or more applications and can be replaced when empty.

PEE WEE HOCKEY

The Madoc Kiwanis Pee Wees ended their schedule this year with three wins and eleven losses in fourteen games. The Pee Wee squad in a rebuilding process found most of the heavier, more established clubs too difficult to cope with. Some games were close and some ended in very lopsided scores. But, whether the scores were close or lopsided, the local boys played with a lot of heart and learned one lesson this year — how to take a defeat.

Out of six teams in the area, the Pee Wees ended up fourth. This meant they were faced with meeting the undefeated first-place Tweed squad in the play-offs. They lost the opener 6-1 in Madoc and dropped the second game 15-1 in Tweed. Tweed has an experienced, heavy, fast-skating team and were too much for the Madoc team.

CONSOLATION SERIES

A consolation series between the first three teams to be eliminated has been set up this year. Three fairly evenly matched teams, Madoc, Marmora and Frankford, will play a round-robin home and home series with the top two teams playing off.

During the season Madoc and Frankford split their games, Marmora defeated Frankford twice and Madoc defeated Marmora twice. The three teams appear to be evenly matched.

In Marmora on Saturday, Madoc dropped a close 3-1 decision to Marmora. Madoc met Frankford, Wednesday night in Madoc and will probably meet Marmora in Madoc this Saturday at 4 o'clock. On Thursday, February 27th, they will journey to Stirling to play Frankford.

NOVICE UNDEFEATED AT END OF SCHEDULE

The Madoc I.O.O.F. Novice team completed their schedule undefeated for the second year in a row, last week. The local boys accumulated 11 straight wins, ninety-eight goals for, and only twelve goals against.

During the season they played in one tournament in Port Perry. At this tournament they defeated Malton, 4-2, and were edged by Scarboro 5-4. Both Malton and Scarboro are Triple A teams and both have the best from thirty teams. So both games are an accomplishment for our "D" squad.

They also played three exhibition matches. Early in the season they dropped a 9-4 decision to the Belleville All-Star Novice, trimmed Campbellford 5-0, and edged a Belleville House League Pee Wee team 6-4.

The Novice are worthy of your support in the weeks to come. "Let's go, Novice, in the play-offs".

NOVICE WIN OPENER IN PLAY-OFFS

Madoc I.O.O.F. Novices, after a slow start on Friday night, downed Tweed 7-2 in the first game of a best two out of three series.

Roger Elliott scored five times, while singles went to Dale Kleinstuber and Danny Forestell.

The second game of this series will be played in Tweed on Saturday at 12:30 p.m.

The winner of this series will meet the winner between Bancroft and Marmora in "Series B".

In the Southern Section, undefeated Stirling eliminated Brighton in two games and Wellington eliminated Frankford in the same number of games. Stirling and Wellington will now fight it out to see who will meet the Northern Section winner.

SUCCESSFUL VALENTINE PARTY HELD

On Friday, February 14th, the Madoc Youth Club held a most enjoyable Valentine Party at the Club Headquarters, 115 St. Lawrence Street E. The place was attractively decorated with hearts and streamers to suit the occasion.

Some lively games started the program. Following this, the Gospel music was turned on, with Cees int' Veld on the accordion; Joe Hurst and Ted Blair on the guitars and John int' Veld and Mrs. Orr on the piano.

Guest singers were Mr. and Mrs. Grant Richardson of Stirling. The main event of the program was the outstanding 25-minute youth film, "In His Steps".

Valentine heart-shaped cake and cookies were special features of the refreshments served by Mrs. Vaughan, Mrs. Geo. Moorcroft and Mrs. Orr.

All teens and twenties are invited to come and enjoy these Friday night Youth Club programs. Phone 473-4161 for rides and information. A special Irish Social is being planned for March.

MINOR HOCKEY NIGHT

Friday, February 21st., has been set aside as Minor Hockey Night in Madoc. Each winter, the boys wait impatiently for this night, because it is their big chance to play hockey before a big crowd.

Because of your support in the past and this year, we are able to buy new sweaters for six teams. These boys try very hard and would like your vocal support also.

So, for a swinging, action-packed night, make it down to the Madoc Arena on Friday night at 7 o'clock and stay for three hours of the best entertainment of the season.

If you can't make it Friday and have bought a Minor Hockey Night ticket, we thank you for your support.

All boys should report to their coaches at least twenty minutes before their games starts. The schedule of times appears elsewhere in this edition.

IN AGAIN. T. C. Douglas, national leader of the New Democratic Party, has regained a seat for himself in the House of Commons. Mr. Douglas won re-election to the House by winning a federal by-election in Nanaimo-Cowichan - The Islands in British Columbia.—TTS

February is sadness

February!
I find you very Hairy,
Not to mention
Contrary, Weather-wise.
Driving is scary
In February.
One must be wary Even more than in January.
Milk in bottles
From the dairy
Freezes on the porch
In February.
And it's not
A very merry Business.

Cleaning up the ruddy mess
When the bottle cracks and the milk leaks all over the Refridgairy.

'Sorry, chaps, but I've been conducting poetry-writing classes this week. And at the same time wading through drifts, trying to get my car started in the good old sub-zero, battling my way through 40-mile-per-hour blizzards, and helping bury an old mate.

Not conducive to a lyric column about the longest-shortest month in the year? Right.

As you can see from the
been going very badly. Imagine having a teacher who writes such garbage trying to breathe Life. Imagination, Experience into your creative poetic soul.
It's enough to turn a kid off poetry for life.

Normally, February is a month in which nobody in his right mind can be found north of the 49th parallel. Unless he hasn't the money to escape.
That's why there are so many of us lurching through snow-banks, noses dripping, eyes watering, coughs racking.
We're either out of our minds, or poor. And in many cases, both.

And if we're not out of our skulls when the month begins, we're ready for the straitjacket and total sedation by the 28th. Thank the gods it's not Leap Year.

All I needed this year, to garnish my February complex, was to help bury an old mate.

He wasn't old in years, and he wasn't a life-long friend, but I'll miss him. Our paths crossed and re-crossed since we both made the ridiculous decision to become teachers, about nine years ago.

During our teacher-training summer courses, surrounded by hot-eyed, ranting youth, just out of university and happy in the knowledge that the world was theirs for the asking, we sort of drifted together in a mutual-defence pact of gentle cynicism.

I'd been through a war and a period of carving a living out of a pretty tough roast of a world. He'd been through a terrible accident, broken neck and the works, years of pain-filled convalescence. We'd both emerged, battle-scarred but banners still flying, from a decade or so of marriage and children.

We weren't exactly student militants, but we shared a hearty scorn for and a quiet amusement at the establishment, the keen types, the pushers, the scramblers, the sparrows trying to make like eagles.

So we gravitated, and the friendship, sporadic and casual, lasted. After some years we wound up in the same town, teaching in the same school.

We golfed together quite a lot because we enjoyed the pace. It was leisurely, good-natured, and we both practised one-upmanship without scruple. You know: the loud scratch of a match at the top of the other's backswing; the coughing fit when the other was making a delicate putt; the gazing into the sky when the other hit a grounder; the gently raised eyebrow when the other missed the ball completely and almost broke his back in the process.

And we kept a fairly good eye on the yardarm. If the sun was over it, we marked the occasion in the usual manner.
And many a late summer afternoon, we sat under the oaks and discussed, without ran-cour, the foibles and follies of the world, while our wives and the squirrels chattered in the background.

I'll miss the Old Boy. And so much for February.

The C.P.R. railway has purchased the site of Evangeline's home at Grand Pre, Nova Scotia, and will maintain it as a public park. A statue of Evangeline being sculptured by Phillipe Hebert, at the time of his death, will be completed by his son, and will be erected on the site.

As a result of a conference between C.P.R. officials and the Peterborough Board of Trade, it is announced that a Sunday train service will be inaugurated on the C.P.R. Dating from May 4th., a Sunday train will leave Toronto at 9:40 a.m. and run to Havelock and returning will reach Peterborough at 3:10 p.m. Dating from April 1st., the local will run from Tweed instead of Havelock, as at present.

The ice crop is poor this year, both in quantity and quality, but what it lacks in the thickness can be made up in surface. The Madoc harvesters are busy.

W. E. Tummon has been successful through the efforts of Mr. E. Guss Porter, West Hastings M.P., of having increased and better mail service for Crookston. Hereafter, a closed mail bag will; each evening be put on the train going to Madoc at 7:11 p.m.
The mail matter will then go on the now existing midnight mail route from Madoc to Ivanhoe C.P.R. and be delivered in either Montreal or Toronto the next morning. Under the new system, all mail matter coming off the rural mail routes to Crookston office will go forward the same evening instead of lying at the office until 3:13 the following day.

Death — James Scott Fargy died Sunday a.m., aged 68 years, at his home in Roslin. Surviving are his widow, one son, Oscar, two daughters, one brother, Peter Fargy of Huntingdon and four sisters.

Deeply impressive was the memorial service conducted in St. Peter's Church on Sunday for the Rev. and Staff-Major Roswell Murray MacTavish, B.A., B.D., M.C., who died of lobar pneumonia in St. Omar, France, on February 6th. In the course of a sermon of great beauty and power, Dr.
MacGillivray made reference to the fallen heroes from Canada and to the one in whose memory the service was being held. He quoted "On Fame's eternal camping ground; their silent eyes are spread, and glory guards with solemn sound, the bivouac of the dead".

Madoc's third blood clinic held last week, under the auspices of the Red Cross Society was an outstanding success. Notwithstanding the below zero weather, 93 men and women gave their blood to help in the vital work. One hundred and twenty-eight Madoc Village and District men and women have now given two hundred and thirty-one individual blood donations. Madoc officials thank the doctors and nurses who donated their time and effort and also the Women's Institutes who provided and served the refreshments, the United Church Board for the use of the church basement and many other workers who helped so generously.

Pte. Claude Kellar returned to his home, Madoc, on Tuesday of this week. Claude enlisted in Hastings and P.E. Regiment with the First Division and went overseas in 1939.

A very pleasant evening was spent at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Bronson on Wednesday of last week when friends and neighbours gathered to honour one of the local boys, Carman Bronson, who is now with the Birth — At Peterborough on Sunday, February 13th., 1944, to Mr. and Marriage — A quiet wedding was solemnized at the United Church parsonage on Saturday morning when Rita Marjory Smith, daughter of Mr.

in marriage to James Charles Moore of Belleville. Mrs. Ed. Armstrong, sister of the bride, and Mr. Jack

T.V. JAMBOREE MAKING RECORD

The big news from the Trent Valley Country Jamboree this week comes with the announcement that, at last, after three years, the Jamboree will have a record out for sale, featuring Lyle "Krazee" Couch and the Cactus Cowboys Band — the first record ever made of Jamboree talent.

Lyle is well-known throughout the district, having lived in the Stirling area most of his life and he attended school in Stirling. At present, Lyle teaches at Westmount School in Peterborough and has appeared on the big Jamboree many times, telling witty stories and reciting Red Sovine songs at the Jamboree at Stirling Theatre.

The Band, from Belleville, has also appeared many times on the Jamboree and country music fans are very anxious to get the record of Lyle Couch and the Cactus Cowboys Band doing the Stirling version of the ever-popular "Deck of Cards" and "Ten Little Bottles". Records will be available within a week and everyone who attends the show is quite excited and anxiously waiting to get a copy of this recording.

on the beautifully coloured envelope of the record and a write-up about the Trent Valley Country Jamboree appears on the back of the envelope.
This recording by Lyle Couch will be a collector's item as the quantity of records will be limited until the second shipment arrives.

ROBERT WARD HOLLAND
(Crookston, Ont.)

Following a lengthy illness, Robert Ward Holland, a lifelong resident and retired farmer of the Crookston district, died at his home in Crookston early Monday morning, February 17, 1969.

He was born at Crookston 82 years ago, a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Holland, and farmed in the district for many years before his retirement.

Mr. Holland was a member of Bethesda United Church and served the congregation in many branches. He was a former Sunday School teacher and superintendent, a former trustee and steward, and at the time of his death, a life member of the board of sessions. Fraternally, he was a past master and honorary member of Madoc L.O.L. No. 160.

Surviving are his wife, the former Annie Mary Curtis; one daughter, Miss Ruby Aleatha Holland, at home, and four sons, Ernest B. Holland, Eldorado, Kenneth, at home, Burton W. Gravenhurst, and Roy W., Campbellford.

Also surviving is one brother, Ross Holland, Stirling, seven grandchildren and one great grandchild. A son, Albert B. Holland, of Havelock, and one brother and two sisters are predeceased.

The funeral was held on Wednesday afternoon, February 20th., from the MacKenzie Funeral Home, Madoc, to Bethesda United Church, where service was conducted by Rev. D. W. Heard.

EMERSON BABCOCK
(Kingston - Madoc)

Emerson Babcock, formerly of Kingston, died at the Pines and Evergreens Nursing Home, Madoc, on Tuesday, February 18, 1969.

He was born at Arnprior 87 years ago, a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Norman Babcock, and resided in Kingston until moving to Madoc three years ago.

He was a member of the United Church.

Mr. Babcock rested at the MacKenzie Funeral Home, Madoc. The funeral service and interment was held at Glenhaven Memorial Gardens, Kingston, this Thursday, February 20th., at 1:30 p.m.

During the week of February 9th to February 15th, 1969, officers of the Madoc Detachment, Ontario Provincial Police investigated 45 occurrences: one break and enter, five thefts, four requests for assistance, one disturbance, with 34 miscellaneous occurrences. One of the aforementioned occurrences involved a search for two Belleville men on snowmobiles lost in bush country, north of the Village of Marmora. With the aid of a Helicopter and crew, from Canadian Forces Base, Trenton, both were located safe and sound, their only complaint being a shortage of gasoline.

There were seven motor vehicle accidents during the past week, all of a property damage nature. As we have stated before, the number we would prefer is zero.

Twenty-five vehicles were safety checked, 52 traffic warnings handed out, with 12 charges laid under the authority of the Highway Traffic Act of Ontario. MOTORISTS—When you are stopped for a safety check, remember this: that it is done for YOUR safety and the safety of OTHERS.

Thirty-two hours were spent in Provincial Court at Madoc, Ontario, with Judge R. C. Jackson registering 28 convictions.

Three thousand, eight hundred and fifty miles of area roads were patrolled during 480 working hours.

RABIES — Precautionary
Dos and Don'ts

1. Teach children to observe wild life at a safe distance.

2. Do not coax, play with or handle wild animals or touch any animal found dead.

3. If it becomes necessary to handle a dead wild animal or suspected rabid animal, wear leather mitts which should be washed in a disinfectant solution after use.

4. Be constantly mindful of the possibility of infected animals when camping, hiking or on vacation.

5. Do have family pets, cats and dogs vaccinated against rabies by your veterinarian; farm animals should also be protected.

6. Keep your dog in control at all times, whether there is a municipal by-law or not - be a good neighbour.

7. Before organizing a foxhunt, or attempting to destroy wild animals in dens, consult your local game warden, do not use poison.

ST. PETER'S W.M.S.

Mrs. Carl Wallace was hostess for the February meeting of St. Peter's W.M.S. There were fifteen members and one visitor present.

At the beginning of the worship period, the aim and purpose of the society was repeated in unison. The Japanese version of the twenty-third Psalm was read by Mrs. Bailey. A recording of the hymn, "Give Me a Vision", was played. The Scripture Reading, selected from the book of Romans, was read by Mrs. Deline. Mrs. Tozer led in prayer.

The president conducted the business part of the meeting. At this time, a letter was read from Mrs. Broatch of Trenton, concerning the Presbyterian and also a bus trip to Toronto to visit the Presbyterian Home, Knox College and Ewart College. The Spring Rally will be held at West Huntingdon on June 6th.

The program, entitled "Koreans and Japanese in Japan", was prepared and given by Mrs. Allan, who explained the feeling of the Japanese people since the surrender of Imperial Japan. The majority of people would like a home in the suburbs of the large cities. Many changes have been brought about by exchange of students, business people and athletic groups. Statistics show there is one car to about sixty-five people.

The Korean people of Japan are our missionary responsibility. Korean Christians have good influence on the Japanese people. Christian and non-Christian students are accepted in all schools. Because of the freedom of religion, Christian teachers are much sought after by South Korean and by the neutral schools.

The playing of the record, "Onward Christian Soldiers", and repeating the Lord's Prayer, closed the meeting.

The World Day of Prayer is to be held March 7th in Trinity United Church.

TRINITY U.C.W. UNIT 1

A well-attended pot luck dinner at the home of Mrs. K. Gordon preceded the February meeting of Unit 1 of Trinity U.C.W.

Mrs. C. Holmes, unit leader, opened the meeting with a reading, "The Red Geranium", theme song, psalm 117, and welcome.

By means of a map, Miss A. Adams gave an explanatory and effective introduction of the new mission study of China. She stated that one quarter of the population of the world are Chinese, and westerners must cultivate an open mind toward understanding many of China's problems. In keeping with the study of China, the worship service was based on the theme, "Why Be Concerned?". The roll call was also answered with something from China.

Mrs. V. Zinfelt and Mrs. P. Brownson gave the report of the Presbyterian held at Picton January 29th.

The program prepared by Mrs. W. J. McCoy, consisted of readings, "A Young Man's Fancy" and "A Century Ago, a Valentine Meant Business", by Mrs. McCoy and "A Grandmother's Request", by Mrs. Elliott. We learned about six mothers of the bible — Sarah, Rachel, Jochebed, Ruth, Hannah and Mary. Mrs. A. Empey read, "If He Came to Your House", and, on the humorous side, Mrs. F. Holmes read, "Count Your Blessings", and "Your Preacher". A heart contest was enjoyed.

WAY PREPARED FOR ABOLISHING GRADE SYSTEM

The Department of Education is drawing up new guidelines for high schools that will prepare the way for abolishing grades and introducing a wider range of courses.

They will encourage schools to draw up individual timetables for each student, and to replace grades with subject promotion — a student would receive credit for each subject passed, no matter how many other subjects he failed.

The new guidelines will apply only to schools that are conducting experimental programs. Most high schools will follow the regulations currently in force, but will incorporate a few minor changes next year to make it easier to introduce new courses.

Deputy Minister Dr. J. R. McCarthy said the new guideline will be based on experiments conducted over the past two years at six Ontario schools, four of them in the Metro Toronto area.

In the past year, another dozen of the 664 high schools in the province have introduced new programs based on these used by the original six.

Dr. McCarthy said the new guidelines would be issued as a supplement to the annual departmental regulations.

"We won't be making anything mandatory. When you make changes, the people involved must be committed to the change, must want to make it work, otherwise it can't work."

The trouble with being punctual is that people think you have nothing more important to do.

Province Plans RENT CONTROL

The Ontario Government plans to introduce legislation to regulate rents at the current session of the legislature.

Nevertheless, A.B.R. Lawrence, PC, Carleton Place, sponsor of a bill empowering the city of Ottawa to create its own rent control bill, said that he plans to go ahead with his bill because legislation contemplated by Municipal Affairs Minister Darcy McKeough will be less effective than that requested by Ottawa.

"My understanding is that the Government plans to rely on conciliation and publicity", Mr. Lawrence said.

"I do not believe that will be as effective. I have never believed in publicity as a means of solving a dispute". Mr. Lawrence also is chairman of the private bills committee.

Mr. McKeough and the Attorney-General's department have been studying the report of the law reform commission, which investigated landlord and tenant law last fall.

The commission proposed that the Government introduce legislation to set up municipal rent-review officers and rent review boards where necessary, to mediate in landlord and tenant disputes.

The Ottawa bill would empower the city to create a rental review board to arbitrate disputes between tenants and landlords and pass binding decisions on "fair and equitable rents".

Failure to comply with the rulings would be punishable by a fine of not more than $1,000 or to imprisonment of not more than two years — or both.

Mr. Lawrence said that he had been informed by Mr. McKeough of the Government's intention to introduce its own legislation dealing with rents. He said the minister had also written the City of Ottawa, informing the mayor and council of his decision.

"I don't feel that I can second-guess Ottawa City Council, who have asked for this legislation", Mr. Lawrence said. "As well, I don't feel that I am in a position to say that this sort of thing is needed all over the province".

He said he will oppose Government proposals to not report the bill or to have it withdrawn.

"The bill is not being held back — it's in the works", Mr. Lawrence said. "Because I'm the committee chairman I have done nothing to either speed up or impede its progress".

The Ottawa bill is expected to come before the private bills committee next week.

DEATHS IN COLLISIONS LOWEST IN FOUR YEARS

The number of deaths resulting from Ontario traffic collisions in 1968 was the lowest in four years, according to preliminary figures released by the Ontario Department of Transport Monday.

There were 1,586 deaths, compared to 1,719 in the previous year, a reduction of 133.

Transport Minister Irwin Haskett said the eight per cent reduction was "still not nearly enough". Most of the collisions were preventable and most of the deaths and injuries should not have happened, he said.

"If the slight reduction in the death toll reflects an improved attitude by drivers and pedestrians, then it might be regarded as encouraging", Mr. Haskett said. "But the other figures for 1968 don't indicate that".

"We're not likely to get a real breakthrough in safety until there is a marked improvement in driver attitudes — until people realize that it's their personal responsibility to drive and walk with common sense".

The 1968 figures indicate that changes in laws regarding motorcyclists, tightening licence procedures and requiring that helmets be worn, may be having a worthwhile safety effect.

Many other possibilities could be advanced for the drop in fatalities, but they would be purely speculative, Mr. Haskett said. The Transport Department's research branch has examined several possibilities, and computer systems that are now being introduced will give added scope for future analysis.

As the number of cars on the road and the total mileage driven continue to increase, so did all the figures on collisions except for fatalities. Total number of collisions rose to 155,127 (from 145,008); and the number of persons injured rose to 71,520 (from 67,280).

Details and final figures will be published within a few weeks. The preliminary breakdown on 1968 traffic deaths is as follows (with 1967 figures in brackets): Drivers, 643 (672); Passengers, 491 (542); Pedestrians, 336 (393); Motorcycle Drivers and Passengers, 65 (81); Bicyclists, 47 (22); Other, 4 (9).

With less than two weeks to the deadline, about a million motorists still have to get their 1969 license plates.

Transport Minister Irwin Haskett said there will be no extension of the February 28th deadline.

He said 931,397 sets of plates have been issued since they went on sale December 2nd. Still to be obtained are 1,088,988 sets.

PEMBROKE — Armour Gribbon, 38, father of five, was fined $25 when he pleaded guilty to entering a liquor outlet, having left children under 8 years of age unattended.

The charge was laid on February 7th, when Sgt. Orville Christink found a five-year-old boy and 3-year-old girl in a car parked near a Pembroke Hotel. He said the temperature was four degrees, the windows were frosted over and the children were crying.

Police were told they had been there three hours.

Two hours after the children were taken from the car, Gribbon and his wife came out of a beverage room. Gribbon said he had been unable to start the car and was waiting in the hotel for a friend who had promised to help him.

ARDA PROJECT PROGRESSING

Fifteen men, residing in the Western part of Renfrew County, have been steadily employed since November 26th, on an ARDA-sponsored Forest Improvement Project in Brudenell Township under direction of the Tweed District of Department of Lands and Forests. Despite adverse weather conditions, with 20-24 inches of snow in the bush, work has progressed favourably on the removal of mature, defective and cull trees left behind from previous logging operations. All trees cut are being utilized wherever possible or sawlogs or pulpwood.

To date, about half of the appropriation of $36,000.00 has been spent. It is expected that original estimates calling for recovery of most expenditures through revenue from sale of products will be met.

To the end of January, 125,000 F.B.M. of sawlogs and 724 cords of pulpwood produced have been sold.

Providing weather conditions allow it, work on this project will continue until the end of March. By that time, it is hoped that several hundred acres of Forest will have received improvement treatment resulting in improved growth and a potential better quality future harvest crop. At the same time, the project is contributing to the local economy by employing farm residents in the area who have a great need for off-season employment to supplement their income.

Useful information and experience is being gained to be used to plan future course of action.

A. H. Peacock, District Forester, Dept. of Lands and Forests, Tweed, Ontario.

A problem after marriage

DEAR DORIS — The girl my son married used to come every weekend and we both thought she was nice, but since she got married she is a real problem. She is dominating and bossy and won't even let our son come to see us. It's all her own people, and I believe she has him so brainwashed he doesn't know right from wrong.

It breaks our hearts as we both love him dearly. We only go on invitation and then she gossipes about the work etc. This Christmas was the pay-off. We got two cheap little gifts, which didn't matter, only the other side got real expensive ones. My husband says we should smarten up, as they have a much nicer home than we have and go without nothing.

I know our son knows there is something wrong but she is so difficult it makes it bad for him. I have never said anything but feel like discussing her with him. Would it help?

So Many Hurts

DEAR HURTS — No good at all, unless he comes to you. He may be just as surprised as you are at the way his life has been taken over.

I'd guess this young bride has a good deal of growing up to do. When raising a family starts to hit hard, who then will be the strong one? The partner whose parents have given him love, and responsibility, and self-confidence.

Resent nothing, openly. Let him see you are there as always, believing in him and ready, to be useful if you are needed. And when you and your husband blow your tops, confine the blast-off to each other.

DEAR DORIS — I would like to know that the phrase "Sock it to me" means. I can't really ask anyone for fear I'll get laughed at.

Curious And Wondering

DEAR C. AND W. — I asked somebody and merely got a mystified look. He didn't know either.

I'm told it was originally a line in a popular song. It might mean, "Let me have it," or

(Readers: What about it?)

DEAR DORIS — To settle an argument, could you tell me whether cigarette smoking has decreased, with all the talk about it? My husband says more people are smoking than ever.

Against It

DEAR AGAINST IT — According to the Honorable John Munro, Minister of Health and Welfare, there is a consistent decline in Canadian cigarette consumption. In a speech to a meeting of The Canadian Cancer Society he said, in part:

"The present encouraging trend in Canadian smoking habits will have to continue and quicken for a considerable period before its reflection brings change to the tragic record of preventable illness and death."

"The time lag between the commencement of cigarette smoking and the serious onset of its consequences is reckoned in years. But from many directions comes evidence that the march towards the day of falling death rates from smoking-induced diseases is gaining significant momentum."

Would your husband care for a copy of my leaflet "Why Smoke?", which offers some choice ideas about how to quit?

Confidential to Worried Sister — Your sister has a problem, and that's for sure. But not the one she is worried about. Whether she realizes it or not, she plays with fire when she turns to drugs and pills in such wholesale fashion.

Better take a hand. Talk with her current doctor and discover whether he is aware of the way she does herself. If he has not given her these prescriptions, does he know what doctor supplies them?

He will be nothing but glad to have you take a live interest in her — and this could make all the difference in making his treatment effective.

SAFETY POSTER

The Safety Council Committee of the Hastings Farm Service Club is pleased to announce that their entry in the Royal Winter Fair was one of the prize winners. Safety Poster Competitions were conducted in Hastings County during 1968 among 4-H members. An entry was chosen at Madoc Fair with the qualification that it be prepared by a Grade 7 or 8 student. This was forwarded to the Ontario Farm Safety Council for Royal Winter Fair purposes. As a result of the placing in this competition, the poster prepared by Cathie Best of Maynooth was awarded a cash prize of $10.00. The Safety Committee has received this award and forwarded it to the contestant.

RANCH CONFERENCE

On Thursday, February 27th, a special conference will be held, starting at 10:30 in the Hungerford Township Hall, Tweed. It is open to the ranch owners in the Townships of Hungerford and Tyendinaga. This specified area was involved in a ranch survey in 1968 and there have been three meetings in the late fall and early winter. A Ranch Committee of six men, with John Cassidy of Stoco as Chairman, is heading up the program.

The present decision is to bring all the owners together in a one-day session. This will not be a lecture meeting, but will be a workshop discussion meeting. Some of the main problems that have to be discussed and decisions made on include the use of chemicals and what types of equipment for weed and brush control. The subject of re-seeding and fertilizing must be reviewed. The best use of present Gov't. programs and how they can be applied must be fully understood and discussed. Most important, the ranchers must define what their real objective is in any renovation work.

At the present time, pasture and ranch land of any good quality is at a premium. It is getting in shorter supply each year. Most of the ranchers are well aware of the situation and have reached the conclusion that they had better do something now rather than wait until it is absolutely too late and uneconomical. The obvious answer is to renovate the best lands and make them as productive as possible.

Taking part in the discussion on February 27th, with the ranch owners will be Bill Hurst, Soil and Crop Specialist for the Quinte Region; Grover Smith, the Eastern Ontario Weed Specialist; Dr. Jack Winch, the Rough Land Pasture Renovation Specialist from the Ontario Agricultural College, and who is also a Consultant on ARDA programs. Also in attendance will be Bob McMahon, ARDA Regional Development Officer from Kingston.

The committee feels that this is the key time for all ranchers to participate in any program that may be developed. They urge all ranch and pasture owners in the two townships who are concerned about the situation get out and take part in the development of any program.

HAYLAGE DAY

Monday, February 24th, 1969
Legion Hall, Stirling, 10:30 a.m.
Total year-round feeding systems seem to help answer the labour problems on many farms, particularly the dairy farm. Forages harvested as medium moisture silage commonly called "Haylage" can provide all the forage part of the ration as a top quality product.

A number of people in this area have tried the Haylage System and have been very well pleased with the results. Many others would like to find out more about haylage and what it could do for them on their farm. If you are interested in finding out more about it, plan to attend. If you have already tried haylage, please come and share your experiences with others. This will be a workshop-type meeting with participation by all those interested.

Mr. C. F. MacGregor, Farm Management Specialist, and Mr. William E. Hurst, Soil and Crop Specialist, will be providing additional information on benefits, economics and methods of handling forages in this form.

APPOINTMENT ANNOUNCED FOR CROP INSURANCE AREA

The Crop Insurance Commission of Ontario has announced the appointment of Arthur McLaughlin as Area Representative for the counties of Northumberland, Peterborough, Hastings, Prince Edward, Lennox and Addington, Frontenac and Leeds. Mr. McLaughlin is a native of Lennox and Addington County, where he has farmed for many years. He has been an agent for Crop Insurance since the inception of the program.

Mr. McLaughlin brings to his new duties a great deal of experience in both agriculture and insurance. His for Crop Insurance are possible because the Provincial and Federal Governments share all administrative costs of the program. In addition, the Federal Government pays twenty five per cent of the premiums and the Government of Ontario, five per cent.

BELL LINES

By C. H. Buckley
Your Telephone Manager

Have you ever stopped to think how many times you use your phone during the course of a day, a week, a year? Probably not. Well, whether it's to order a forgotten item from the store, arrange for a baby sitter, change an appointment, check on the car or chat with a friend, there's a good chance you make more calls in a year than your counterparts elsewhere in the world.

According to the latest figures, Canadians are still the most talkative people in the world when it comes to telephones. Mind you, Americans are running a close second. In 1967, Canadians averaged 667.7 calls per person; that's 7 more than our friends south of the border. Mum's the word in Burma, however; citizens there made the least number of calls — an average of 7 each in 1967.

Of the 222 million telephones in the world in that year, more than 103 million were located in the United States. Canada was in sixth place, with 8.4 million phones in service — that's 40.65 telephones for every 100 people. The average for the world is 6.4 phones for every 100 persons.

"I WANT TO MAKE A MACPHERSON TO MACPHERSON CALL!"

If I were to ask where to find the noisiest place in the world, I bet I'd get as many different answers as there are readers of this column. But I'm not going to ask because, if there is one thing that's easy to find these days, it's noise. Quiet? Now that's another story. Still, there are a few remaining havens where quiet reigns supreme and one of them is the anechoic chamber or "Dead Room" at Northern Electric's Research and Development Labs in Ottawa. The room is shielded from 99 per cent of noise by thick masonry walls, isolation from the building in which it is housed and elaborate acoustical filters lining the room and ventilation system. The Dead Room is used for precise measurements of speech and hearing, and for work on receiving, producing and transmitting sound.

Poor old Pierre Trudeau

Back during the Liberal leadership convention and the election of June '68, the big slogan in the big land was "Go Go Trudeau." The cry is still with us, but a growing number of people are giving an entirely different meaning to the word "go."

It was less than eight months ago that thousands of Canada's young went bright-eyed and eager into the streets, loaded with election pamphlets and posters, rapping at doors, seeking votes that they themselves were too young to cast.

The excitement was contagious. Pierre Elliott Trudeau became the darling of Canada. Men envied him, identified with this swinging politician who kissed babes of an entire untraditional type. Housewives threw off their aprons, let down their hair, and for the first time in their lives sat without fidgeting at election meetings, disciples of a new era in politics.

But there are signs that the idol is falling. The hero was human, he was man and not miracle-maker, and the old disciples feel cheated, bitter, as though it were he and not they who exaggerated his stature.

You'll see signs of their disenchantment in letters to the editor, where with hostile tones a young man who helped Trudeau in the election now lashes him for his "just nothing society."

You'll read it as well in Canada's college newspapers, as campus intellectuals test their new vocabularies probing the disappointments of the Trudeau phenomenon, or you may come upon it as you gossip with the lady next door. She once gushed with pleasure at the mere mention of Trudeau's name, but now swears he's selling English Canada out to Quebec, and she knew it all the time.

What caused Trudeau's fall from national grace? Perhaps it was just impatience. Trudeau rode a rocket, his rise to power was meteoric, and everyone expected him to hit Ottawa with a fiery display. They waited, nothing happened.

He was also hurt badly by the Commonwealth summit conference in London. Canadians beamed with pride at the way the world press acclaimed him, but he drew a blank in the spotlight. And his peevish lashing of the press was embarrassing somehow.

And, too, there was his failure to take action against France's insults towards Canada, sensibly enough, but a nation's ego was left bruised and smarting.

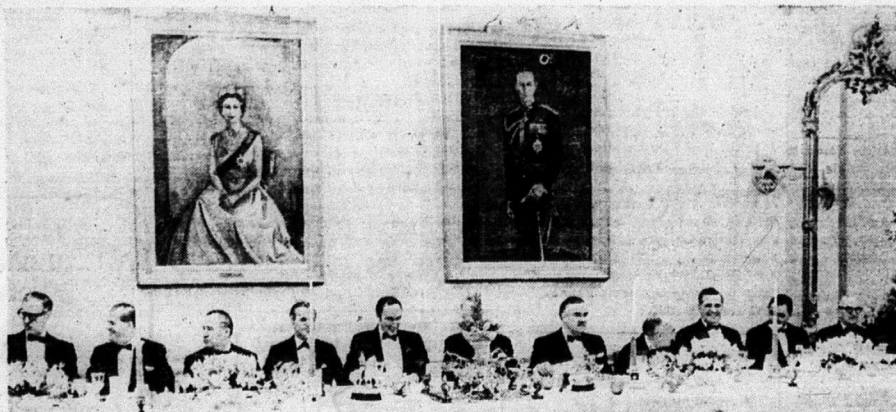

There was, of course, the omnibus bill to amend the Criminal Code, but middle-class reserve prevented most Canadians from getting enthusiastic about abortions or increased freedom for homosexuals.

Above anything else, Trudeau promised "One Canada," national unity, but since taking the reins of power, some argue, separatism has gone off at a runaway gallop.

At the Federal - Provincial Constitution Conference last week, Trudeau came on strong with the zeal of a man with a mission. Dramatically he warned that unless linguistic rights were granted to French Canada, the nation would collapse.

And then Quebec Premier Jean-Jacques Bertrand spoiled it all by countering that Trudeau's attempts to make Canada bilingual were a waste of time. There was Trudeau, in full view of the nation, riding off to rescue the maiden in distress, when suddenly the maiden poun-pooed him away, explaining that she wasn't in distress after all, thank you.

One could almost pity Trudeau on that first day of the constitution talks, and hardly blame him if he decided he would much rather be back in his old Cabinet post. At least there was some justice in it...

DEFENSIVE DRIVING COURSE EFFECTIVE

Every year there are more automobiles on Canada's highways, more people driving them more miles—and more Canadians dying in traffic mishaps.

Better-built and safer cars come along each year and new highways are better designed, but the drivers never seem to improve.

Or do they? There are now indications that the ratio of death to the number of miles driven each year is levelling off and it may just be that something is happening to make our drivers more safe on the highways.

One significant contribution in this field is the Defensive Driving Course of the Canada Safety Council. So far, close to 35,000 Canadian drivers have graduated from this course, including more than 15,000 in the Armed Forces. In many cases, accident rates have declined sharply where the course has been taught.

A defensive driver is described as one who is always aware of all conditions on the road around him so he is able to see trouble developing far enough ahead to be able to defend himself against it and stay out of accidents.

The Canada Safety Council urges all Canadians to take the Defensive Driving Course.

Perhaps if we had more defensive drivers, we would have fewer dead ones.

rink separate in every way from the present Community Centre building. Thirty-two members voted against the erection of a Curling Rink in the referendum held last weekend. The vote was 76.1 per cent in favour of a separate rink. Work is expected to begin on the building early next summer. The directors hope to have it ready for curling in the fall of 1969. The building will be erected on a site south-east of the Community Centre. It is hoped that it will be used as a part of the rapidly-expanding Tweed Fair. Meetings have been held between the directors of the Club and the Tweed Agricultural Society regarding this matter, but nothing definite could be arranged until the members had approved the erection of the proposed building. — Tweed News.

BALL FIRM GETS CONTRACT FOR MADOC ADDITION

The construction firm of Ball Bros. Ltd., Kingston, has been awarded the contract to build the addition to Centre Hastings Secondary School in Madoc.

Ball Brothers' tender for $1,940,000 was the lowest of nine received by Hastings County Board of Education. Adjustments suggested by the architect, Boigon and Heinonen, and director of education Eric Runnacles has lowered the contract price to $1,932,348.

Deletion of television equipment resulted in the largest saving — $4,712. Conduit and outlet boxes will be provided to permit television installation at a later date when board policy regarding TV has been formulated.

"The administration is considering a central video tape library system in place of an individual receiver in each school", chairman James Clarke told the board.

FIRE DESTROYS HOME ON ELGIN STREET

A family of ten are left homeless this week as the result of a fire which completely gutted their one and a half storey home on Elgin Street last Friday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Brown and their eight children, ranging in age from ten years to two months, were forced out of their home with only the clothes they had on at the time.

The fire, which was discovered at about 10:30 a.m. is believed to have started in an upstairs bedroom, and had made such progress that the Madoc Fire Department could only contain the fire to the dwelling.

Some major appliances were all that was saved from the building, which is partially covered by insurance.

Mr. Brown, who is employed at Canada Talc Industries Ltd., and his family have been residing with relatives at Cooper.

Mr. Brown informed the Review that donations of clothing are being received, but their greatest need is for footwear for the children.

Anyone interested in donating anything to the Brown family can do so by leaving it with Rev. Thompson in Madoc, or by calling Mr. Don Ash.

Change is necessary

It seems tragically true that violence is the price a nation must pay for change and progress.

Canadians have always been quietly — even smugly — proud of their history of evolution rather than revolution. Admittedly, there have been a few short frantic wars on Canadian soil, a number of comic-opera crises with Fenians, and a few prairie skirmishes with the Indians and Metis led by the pitiful prophet, Louis Riel — but generally speaking, Canada lapsed into the 20th century with a relatively peaceful past behind her.

In front of her, however, the days look anything but pacific and calm. The reserve that was traditional in Canadians has suddenly been widely displaced by a radicalism, a violence that is shaking Canada's present and threatening her future.

In Quebec, French-Canadian revolutionaries or madmen or both have terrorized a province with 60 bombs over the past year, finally lashing against the Montreal stock exchange — symbol of the financial domination of les Anglais.

In Montreal, too, a multi-million dollar computer became a symbol and scapegoat and as though it could be guilty of a fabricated racial discrimination, it was demolished by a mob of Negro and white university students.

Some Negroes, in Toronto and Halifax especially, band together in Black Power brotherhood, importing hate from the United States in the form of Black Panther speakers, and pledge themselves uncompromisingly to somehow harm, to hurt Canada's "whitey society" and to wreak revenge for what they call Canada's "polite racism".

Realizing there are not enough Negroes in Canada to do much damage in a revolution, Black Power militants augment their threats by pledging to draw in Canadian Indians as allies.

As the average Canadian views all this in his newspaper or on television, his mind reels with consternation. What is causing this upsurge of violence that was unknown to his forefathers, what has he done to deserve this anger, to merit this unrest?

Has the Federal Government not offered concession after concession to French Canada? Have taxpayers not provided bigger and better universities for students, and haven't courses been liberalized? Haven't the doors been widened for colored immigrants from the West Indies, Britain and the United States, with an estimated 15,000 to 20,000 Negroes entering Canada in 1968? Isn't a comprehensive Federal inquiry being made into the economic and social conditions of the Canadian Indian?

As he dwells on all these improvements, the average citizen may grow indignant over the "ingratitude" of people, and become defensively hostile against further reform.

So long as people are kept in an iron grip, held by a tyranny that they have long been used to, there will be no great turmoil. But the moment that grip is released ever so slightly, the second the people experience a new freedom of movement, they will refuse to accept their past imprisonment passively, and will violently try to tear themselves free of the old restrictions.

In Russia, for example, the most bloody conflict occurred not during the worst periods of feudal tyranny, but after the czars began to grant a few meagre liberties. Africa, too, was far more peaceful during the periods of dictatorial colonial control than after the introduction of internal freedoms.

Change is necessary. If a period of unrest and violence is the inevitable cost of transition, then we must pay — not happily, but stoically, bracing ourselves for the certain storm.

The French Canadian, the student, the Negro and Indian — all have one thing in common. They feel they have been starved of certain freedoms. After a period of starvation, it is normal for the victim, when food is first placed in front of him, to eat too hurriedly, too frenziedly. Realizing this, all we can do is try to stop them from gobbling down more than is good for them... or us.

Doris Clark

A 'fan' writes

DEAR DORIS — Please send me your leaflet which gives you the various things you have to do ahead of a wedding, like lining up minister, reception place, invitations the whole bit. Ten cents enclosed.

Doris, I want to compliment you on how you help people. You solve all problems in the light of love and never is there a touch of bitterness in your answers to unhappy people. You seem to pull out of people the smallest light of hope and make it grow, no matter how dark things may be.

A Fan Of Yours
DEAR FAN — Now I'm all puffed up! Might I return the thought that you have a very nice way of praising a gal?

The new leaflet about weddings is called "Wedding Count Down," and it is on its way to you.

DEAR DORIS — My boy friend and I just broke up. I've been made terribly unhappy before and I never want it to happen again. I don't have much opportunity to meet eligible men. I'm only 19 but I feel that I'll never find anyone who will love me.

Even my former boy friend told me that I have many complexes and that there is no reason why I should feel the way I do. I thought that by computer dating I might find someone who feels and thinks the way I do.

I would like your opinion as to whether it is worth trying or if I'm just being silly and immature to want to do this?

Shy And Solitary
DEAR S. AND S. — Computer dating? It has its hazards.

True, we need friends with common interests, but there is something about personality that you can't put down on paper. No matter how fancy the computer, two match-up cards are a poor substitute for flesh and blood contact. And a person could be taken for a terrible ride.

You'll do better at finding kindred spirits by joining something, or a couple of something. It may take more nerve to break into a new group than to fill out a form, but it's results you want.

Go on. The first move is the hardest. Visit your local Y.W.C.A. and read over the social activities program, for a start.

DEAR DORIS — You seem to so readily acquire information on all sorts of requests. I wonder if you could help me.

I had an accident a while ago and people tell me I could have my face fixed with plastic surgery. I have saved money for the operation, but where?

Worried
DEAR WORRIED — I like that "so readily." It might surprise you to know the lengths we go to here, to unearth obscure facts when readers need them!

Plastic surgery is making beauties out of uglies. Why not you? Ask your family doctor to refer you to a plastic surgeon in your area. (Or give your right name and address when you write to me again, and I'll see what I can do.)

DEAR DORIS — It burns me up when my daughter-in-law makes me slow down. I go into her kitchen and ask to do a job, and she just tells me to sit down and talk to her. Doesn't want to "tire me."

I'm not so blessed old. Only 64, still do all my own housework. Why should she put me on the shelf?

Still Smoldering
DEAR SMOLDERING — Simmer down. Your private complex about ageing is showing. Remember that your D.I.L. needs her own excuses to manage her kitchen herself. Smile and relax.

You've got your work to do at home. Why not enjoy being pampered when you go visiting? You are only on the shelf if you think you are.

FARM NEWS

(ONTARIO DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE AND FOOD)

The formation of the Hastings Farm Service Club brought about a large increase in memberships. This single organization covers the work of three previous groups and provides for complete county planning with other county farm groups. It is based on an annual membership of $1.00. For publicity purposes, the Hastings Agri-Gram has become the official newsletter.

Recent changes in postal rates and other rising costs have meant that newsletters that were mass distributed in the past among county farm people are going to have to be restricted and concentrated on those who are active participants. The method of making sure your name is on the mailing list is to take out a membership. Memberships have been coming in very quickly. We have an objective of a maximum number of commercial farmers. We are a long way from this yet, even though we have made tremendous gains. The membership drive is now on. It is a simple matter to become a member. It can be done by sending $1.00 and your name and address to the Hastings Farm Service Club, Ontario Department of Agriculture and Food, Box 340, Stirling, Ontario.

The membership itself is not really the important point. A mass of them does provide extra funds. The more important points are: first of all, the bringing together of the interested commercial farmers into one organization; secondly, under the method of operation, the Farm Service Club continually seeks out opinions and viewpoints of its members. From these, it is able to develop plans for projects and activities that meet not only the immediate needs, but the long range interests of the farm producer; the third point is that the mailing list provided by membership sets up a method of communication for a regular flow of information so the farm producer can be totally aware of what is going on and follow up the things that are of most interest to him.

VALUE OF EAR CORN

Much corn is harvested as ear corn and stored in cribs. Some of this corn may be sold at a later date as ear corn for feed. Usually corn prices are quoted on shelled corn at 15.5 per cent moisture basis. What then is the value of ear corn sold out of the crib for feed?

Ear corn contains both grain and cob. Two thousand pounds (1 ton) of ear corn at 15.5 per cent moisture will shell out to about 1,640 pounds of shelled corn at 15.5 per cent moisture and 360 pounds of cob. Ear corn requires several months crib storage to dry to 15.5 per cent moisture and ear corn sold during the fall and winter may range from 20 to 40 per cent moisture and is worth proportionately less than 15.5 per cent corn.

To determine the value of a ton of ear corn at moisture levels other than 15.5 per cent, contact the Ontario Department of Agriculture and Food office, Stirling, and ask for the leaflets "Value of Ear Corn", and information leaflet, Agdex 111.840, "How Your Shelled Corn is Bought".

TRENDS IN FARM ACCOUNTING

The trend in farm accounting in Hastings County over the past few years has been on the increase. Possibly one of the main reasons for this is the fact that money-lending agencies are demanding a more accurate record of the farm business before establishing a line of credit.

Another important reason for keeping farm records is the fact that every farmer is expected to file income tax. Possibly the reason just mentioned is foremost in the minds of those who do keep farm records.

Over the past year there has been a considerable number of farmers obtaining the services of accounting agencies. The main purpose of doing this is to file income tax. A word of caution here would be to make sure you read the fine print on any contract which may be produced by these agencies.

As most farmers are aware, the Ontario Farm Account book can be obtained from the Ontario Department of Agriculture and Food office in Stirling.

During 1968, approximately 240 Ontario Farm Account books were given out. To date this year, there have been approximately 160 distributed. Of the 240 account books given out in 1968, six were submitted for farm management analysis. This service is provided by the Extension Branch of the Ontario Department of Agriculture and Food in conjunction with the University of Guelph.

One of the more recent accomplishments in farm accounting is the new Can-Farm system, which is being carried out on an experimental basis in Ontario in 1969. This is a monthly mail-in system with an analysis done by computer.

Anyone wishing assistance in setting up a farm record system for farm management purposes should feel free to contact the Ontario Department of Agriculture and Food in Stirling.

REGULAR CHECK-UPS OF CAR IMPORTANT

More than nine per cent of traffic fatalities result from mechanical failure in automobiles and almost all such failures are due to negligence on the part of the owner or driver.

The Canada Safety Council states that drivers have a moral responsibility to keep their cars in safe driving condition, both for their own safety and that of others.

Regular checks should be made of tires, steering equipment, exhaust system, brakes and lights. Windows and mirrors should be kept clean.

Tires, in particular, can be a hazard if they are allowed to become worn. Bald tires seriously reduce control of the car and are far more likely to split or blow out under impact.

All new tires in Canada have built into them a "wear bar" — strips across the tread which become visible when the tread is worn down to one-sixteenth of an inch. When they become visible, the tire should be replaced.

NEEDLECRAFT FOR QUEENSBORO

On February 17th the girls of the Queensboro Girl's 4-H Club held their 3rd meeting at the Institute Hall in Queensboro.

The meeting was opened by all showing their stitches that they had done. Mrs. Allan Sager, Mrs. Harold Tokely and Mrs. Bill Roushorm helped the girls get the blanket and feather stitches started on their "runners" or "scarves".

The next meeting will be held at the Institute Hall, also, on February 23th. The Home Economist, Miss McEachern, will be visiting that night to see how the girls are coming along with the club.

The fellow who blows his own horn is, more often than not, off-key.

50 YEARS AGO

February 20, 1919

Wilfrid Laurier, who from 1874 to 1919 was a member of Parliament, died in Ottawa, February 17, 1919. His whole political life was devoted to what he believed to be the best interests of Canada. He considered Canada as an entity and each province as being subordinate interests of the whole.

In conversation with the Reeve, he brought up the question of the housing problem which is a burning question in the Village of Madoc at the present time. We have had many enquiries for houses from both villagers and from people outside the Village, either for purchase or rent. There is no doubt the population of our town would increase if there was accommodation. Reeve Burns says that the owner of a lot can borrow money from the Government at the rate of five per cent, for the purpose of building a house, and pay it off, both principal and interest in 20 years in monthly payments. This is the greatest opportunity a person ever had of getting a house of his own. Suppose, for example, a man wished to build a $1,500. house, he could borrow the money from the Government through the local organization and by paying $10 a month for 20 years, he would have the property clear. If he wished to build a $3,000. house, the monthly rent would be $20 for 20 years, and so forth. For further particulars, consult the Reeve.

Word has been received that Capt. James Harold Blair, C.A.M.C., a former Madoc High School pupil, has been recommended for the Victoria Cross for conspicuous gallantry and devotion to duty during the operation before Cambrai from Sept. 27th to Oct. 1st, 1918, inclusive.

25 YEARS AGO

February 24, 1944

A discovery by investigators of the Ontario Health Dept. that residents of Ripley near Kincardine have scarcely any tooth decay was announced by the Deputy Health Minister as a possible long step forward in dental medicine. The Minister said that it was first determined the presence of such elements as flourine and Phosphorous in drinking water and home-grown foods in the district and probed their relation to prevalent dental conditions. He said flourine and phosphorous is abundant in the Ripley area and the teeth of the people were found to be exceptionally good. The investigators have now turned their attention to the Madoc district, where flourine and phosphorous is believed to exist.

The only major change in the gasoline rationing for the 1944-45 year, which starts April 1st., is that owners must write in ink, on each gasoline coupon, the Provincial license number of their vehicle. Service Station attendants will refuse coupons which do not bear the correct license number.

15 YEARS AGO

February 18th., 1954

The past week has been a real example of our variable winter weather. On Friday night of last week local thermometers registered as low as 27 degrees below zero. By noon on Sunday the weather had undergone a welcome change and the same thermometers were registering as high as 44 degrees above, a change of 71 degrees.

Frances Dafeo and Norris Bowden this week won the world pairs figure skating championship at Oslo, Norway. Frances is the daughter of Dr. W. A. Dafeo, a native of Madoc Village.

Mrs. Marjory Elizabeth Saulay, wife of Raymond Saulay, died Wednesday afternoon as a result of a fire which damaged their cabin trailer in Madoc Village in which the couple were living. Mrs. Saulay died of asphyxiation, as her body was not badly burned. From evidence, it is believed that Mrs. Saulay was trying to start a fire in a stove when, in some manner, the building caught fire. She was alone at the time. The late Mrs. Saulay, who was in her 26th year, was born at St. Oia, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Phillips. Besides her parents, she is survived by five sisters and four brothers.

HOSPITAL ADDITION SEEN BY THOUSANDS
ON SUNDAY

Thousands of Quinte area residents turned out Sunday to have a look at the new $9 million addition to Belleville General Hospital.

According to hospital administrator Philip Rickard, an estimated 5,000 people viewed the addition. "The turnout far exceeded our expectations", he said. "We were only counting on a few hundred people".

The tour through the extension followed official opening ceremonies at education hall and the cutting of the traditional ribbon by health minister Matthew Dymond.

The 312-bed addition contains an intensive care unit, a radiology department, a laboratory, cafeteria, an emergency department, dental department and a psychiatric clinic — the first of its kind in the area. Six operating theatres are also included.

The new addition becomes fully operative later this week.

The extension spans seven floors and includes the most modern in communications and hospital equipment.

Those touring the addition saw the newest in hospital equipment.

Included in the building are separate rooms for clean and soiled clothing.

"Soiled supplies never come into contact with decontaminated items", Mr. Rickard said.

Communication is a major feature of the new section and visitors saw the control stations and pocket pagers which will enable nurses, doctors and hospital staff to keep in close contact with administrative control centres at all times.

Inter-departmental messages will also get quick action. Pneumatic tubes have been provided to move messages throughout the building.

A new system of central dictating for doctors, as well as a unique charting system for patients will also be used.

The Friesen method of construction has been used in the seven-storey addition. This concept makes it easier for the nurses and doctors to perform their duties.

During the tour, visitors were moved through the building on one of three elevators included in the design.

They were served coffee by members of the hospital staff and shown through the various departments in each section of the new wing.

On his visit to the addition, Dr. Dymond noted the many donations which had helped in construction of the extension.

"You've really had a lot of help from the community — it's great to see such enthusiasm over a hospital", he told Mr. Rickard.

He who buys what he does not need steals from himself. —Swedish proverb.

REPORT

During the week of February 16th to February 22nd, 1969, officers of the Madoc Detachment, Ontario Provincial Police investigated five motor vehicle accidents, all of a property damage nature. An example of the fact that you must adjust to road, and traffic conditions occurred Sunday, February 23rd. After it began to snow heavily we had five motor vehicle accidents reported in six hours, all one-car affairs, in which the vehicle ran off the roadway.

There were 45 occurrences reported, two break and enter, two thefts, two disturbances, with 39 miscellaneous occurrences. Five hundred and forty-four hours were worked during 4,150 miles of area roads patrolled.

Eighty-four vehicles were safety checked, eighty traffic warnings handed out, with 23 charges laid under authority of the Highway Traffic Act of Ontario. In addition, 14 charges were laid under Provincial and Federal Statutes.

Thirty-six hours were spent in Provincial Court, Madoc, with Judge R. C. Jackson registering 21 convictions.

A DRIVERS GUIDE

You watch the driver who drives ahead

And the driver who drives behind;

You watch to the right;

You watch to the left;

You drive with a calm, clear mind.

But the driver you really have to watch

On the highway, you will find

Is the driver behind the driver ahead

And ahead of the driver behind.

Sgt. C. Kotva,

Madoc Detachment.

ONTARIO REVOLVER ASSOCIATION TROPHY

Ontario Revolver Association shooting awards were presented recently to uniformed members representing the winning district in the Force's annual In-Service Training Shooting Program.

Before a gathering of General Headquarters Staff Officers in Toronto, Commissioner E. H. Silk presented the Force's permanent O.R.A. Trophy to No. 9 District Superintendent, D. E. Wellesley. Mr. H. Waldon, Executive Vice-President of the Ontario Revolver Association, presented the district plaque to Provincial Constables G. Woodcock, Napanee Detachment, and J. E. McCormick, Madoc Detachment, representing the 40 marksmen of No. 9 District who shot a perfect score of 120 each.

These trophies are awarded annually for the highest average score obtained collectively by the members in one of the Force's 17 Districts for General Headquarters in a Force-wide competition.

CROOKSTON 4-H HOMEMAKERS HOLD THIRD MEETING

The third meeting of the Crookston 4-H Homemakers was held on Saturday, February 22nd, at the home of Mrs. Garry Wickens.

The meeting was opened by repeating the 4-H Pledge.

Roll Call was answered by giving uses for the blanket stitch.

The minutes of the last meeting were read by Marlene Preston.

The business was picking a name for the club and "The Swinging Stitchers" was the name decided upon.

Mrs. Garry Wickens discussed how to enlarge a design and touched on three choice articles.

Mrs. Delbert Francis demonstrated the variations of the feather stitch.

Group work consisted of doing a sample feather stitch and beginning it on our embroidery article.

CARD OF THANKS

WE WON'T PLAY. Many Major League baseball players have refused to report to spring training. The action stems from financial disagreements between the owners and players over pension money. The players also want more of a voice in arbitration. They have threatened to carry their boycott into the regular season if an agreement is not reached.—TTS Photo

MADOC W.I.

Mrs. Harry Walden was hostess for the February meeting of the Madoc Women's Institute.

Mrs. H. Brintnell welcomed the visitors and all members present.

The Roll Call, "Five things I would like to take to a Desert Island", was answered by 21 members and three visitors.

The Secretary, Mrs. G. Allore, read the minutes and correspondence.

The Treasurer, Mrs. C. Farrow, gave her report. Mrs. A. Bailey reported on the Consumer's Bulletin.

Miss Connor reported on the Tweedsmuir Book.

The President spoke of the Short Courses coming up, but would contact some of the other Institutes.

Mrs. H. Empey gave a report on the Achievement Day held in Stirling.

Mrs. E. Wannamaker, convenor of "Resolutions", gave the motto, "Happiness comes to those who are too busy to be miserable".

Mrs. E. Wannamaker gave some sketches on the A.C.W.W. Triennial Competition and introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. W. Hill, who outlined the A.C.W.W. bulletin.

Mrs. A. Adams thanked the hostess for opening her home; also Mrs. W. Hill and Mrs. E. Wannamaker for their program.

The meeting closed with the Queen.

A dainty lunch was served and a social time followed.

ST. PETER'S WOMEN'S CLUB

The February meeting of St. Peter's Women's Club was held at the home of Mrs. Pauline Tozer, with a good attendance.

The meeting was opened by the President, Mrs. Vera Hill. In the absence of the secretary, the minutes of the last meeting and the roll call were read by Miss Lamoine West. The treasurer's report was given by Mrs. Daisy Bateman.

After a business discussion, the guest speaker, Miss Alma Moorcroft, was introduced by Mrs. Reta Pitts.

Miss Moorcroft, an avid naturalist, showed slides of local scenes and some from Algonquin Park. These were accompanied by recordings of bird songs and other sounds of nature. Throughout, she read scriptures and poems appropriate to the pictures shown. A suitable solo was sung by Mrs. Dorothea Armstrong. Miss Moorcroft's audience was made to realize how close nature is to God.

Mrs. Catharine Weaver expressed the appreciation of the Club to Miss Moorcroft and Mrs. Tozer.

Lunch was served by Mrs. Tozer, assisted by Mrs. Bateman and Mrs. Hill.

IN MEMORIAM

YOUNG — In loving memory of our dear mother and grandmother, Mrs. Mabel Blanche Young, who passed away February 27, 1968.

A face that is haunting us ever,
A voice we are longing to hear,
A smile we'll remember forever,

While we try to forget every tear,
A sad, but sweet remembrance,
A memory fond and true,

And a token of affection, dear mother
And heartache, mother, for you, Ever remembered and sadly missed by the family.

Said the reluctant young man: "My girl and I are about half serious about getting married: she is and I'm not".

EDITOR OF CONSUMER AFFAIRS SPEAKS TO UNIVERSITY WOMEN

The University Women's Club of Belleville and District were honoured to have as guest speaker Mrs. Una Abrahamson, Editor of Consumer Affairs for Chatelaine. Mrs. T. C. Ringland introduced her.

Mrs. Abrahamson began by defining consumerism and outlining the role it plays as protector and educator of the sometimes unwary buyer. Its aim is to make of us more critical buyers and the manufacturers, better sellers.

Although there is some necessary legislation at both the provincial and federal levels, Mrs. Abrahamson said she felt that since the government could never pass legislation for common sense, we must strive for better communication between government, manufacturer and buyer.

Since women spend most of the money, she urged that they take the responsibility of acquiring at least a basic knowledge of economics, re-educating themselves to keep up with new products and technology, and buying according to individual needs and income.

Mrs. Abrahamson went on to clarify the purpose of the Seal of Approval awarded to certain products by Chatelaine. The Seal of Approval does not promise any miracle; nor is the Seal awarded willy nilly. Manufacturers must apply for it and have their product subjected to rigid tests and checks.

Mrs. Abrahamson concluded her speech by urging women to be critical shoppers, skilled technicians, business-like complainants, who shop wisely and demand the best. Members of the Club had an opportunity to ask questions after the speech.

Mrs. C. E. Osgood, on behalf of the club, thanked Mrs. Abrahamson.

Mrs. R. Burt, convener of the Regional Conference in Belleville October 24-25, reported that the theme will be Law Reform and that the necessary heads of committees have been chosen.

Mrs. H. W. Burns reported that this year's Spring Fair will be held on Saturday, May 3rd, at St. Michael's Auditorium. The fair will feature an exhibition of paintings by Manly MacDonald.

J. H. Rauws.

Bill Smiley

All about those students

My mind is so scrambled right now that I'll be lucky if I can write three understandable sentences.

I've been trying to explain to my daughter, in an hour or so, such things as Marxism and Communism, why the Russian and Chinese types are different, where Fidel Castro fits in, why, where and when the nation of Israel was created, and why the Jews, notably non-belligerent for about 15 centuries, have a chip the size of a brick on their shoulders these days.

From there we wandered to Mahatma Gandhi, the Congo, nationalism in Africa, separatism in Canada, the Black Power movement in the States, growing anti-semitism among Negroes, and her biology test on the dissection of rats, which takes place tomorrow morning.

Golly, it would be nice to have once again a little girl, who asked such simple questions as, "Dad, does God have to go to the bathroom?"

It all began with a discussion of the student militants at universities. She is appalled at the violence of the hard core of "pacifists" who, lurking in the forefront of all the young idealists and the middle-aged "liberals", deliberately resort to violence in their efforts to catch headlines, be martyrs, and destroy an idea which has taken almost 1,000 years to build — The University.

Thankfully, we agreed that violence begets violence, and that neither of us wants any part of the whole stupid business.

Admittedly, the universities are sitting ducks. Over the years, they have grown as sleepy and fat and insolent as an old tomcat who has been "fixed".

They have almost taken pride in their administrative inefficiency, their moribund traditions, their cosiness with The Establishment. Write a letter to a university. Three weeks later you will receive a reply, either a form letter or something completely alien to what you asked.

And admittedly, students, universally, have always been among the vanguard of rebels against the system, political or social. That's because they are idealistic, want action, and are inclined to see things in blacks and whites (or today, blacks and reds).

But the fact remains that the universities, over the years, have become the only truly free centres (albeit timid) of sound criticism of society and its ills, in addition to their normal function of teaching people to think and/or learn a professional skill.

And another fact remains. The universities, on the whole, under pressure from within and without, have made a tremendous effort to rouse themselves from their stately torpor and scramble into the twentieth century. Even though it's two-thirds over.

In the process, they have leaned over backwards to free themselves of the rigid, puritan traditions of even 20 years ago. When I was there, living in men's residence, we were allowed to bring girls into the place once a year, on a Sunday afternoon, for a heavily chaperoned cocoa and cookie party in the common room. Now, wow!

I'm not advocating a return to those days, when university men and women were treated like bright juveniles who were basically sex-fiends and alcoholics.

But I am dismayed to see these once-great institutions covering and cringing under the attacks of malcontented, Marxist wolf-cubs who represent a fraction of student opinion.

As Mordecai Richler pointed out recently, the real yuck of the whole affair is that while the student activists endorse anything, up to the burning of buildings, they are scared stiff lest they get a police record, which would be a serious detriment when they try to get a job in the system they are trying to destroy.

The solution? Kick out the hard-nosed boys and girls, for whom democracy is a sham anyway. Sock it to them with the law when they disturb the peace or commit vandalism. And get back to the business of educating, or teaching to think, the vast majority who want those things.

So now I'm a fascist, and a tool of the imperialistic press. I knew it at heart.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

This income tax column has been prepared by the Belleville District Office, Department of National Revenue, Taxation. The questions used are common ones, and the answers usually straightforward.

However, unusual circumstances sometimes alter the answer. If your question isn't answered here, or in the Income Tax Guide, phone 968-6424 in Belleville, or write National Revenue, Taxation, 11 Station Street, for free advice.

By A. K. Miller, Public Relations Officer, Belleville Taxation Office.

1. Q. What do I do if, after filing my return, I discover it is in error?

A. If, after you send in your return, you have to change or add something, do so by writing your district taxation office. DO NOT file another return and DO NOT write to Data Centre in Ottawa.

2. Q. Is it important to have every space completed on a return?

A. Every applicable space should be completed because incomplete returns cannot be processed at the Data Centre in Ottawa. They are sent back to the district offices for correction, a process that may involve actual contact with the taxpayer and only after such correction has taken place, can the form be returned to Ottawa for processing, a delay which may well hold up payment of your refund.

3. Q. It appears from my T4 slip that my employer has not deducted sufficient Canada Pension Plan contributions. May I pay the additional amount required and claim the increased deduction?

A. No, please do not make additional payments on your return. Claim only the contributions per T4 slips. If it appears that you have been under-deducted, check with your employer first. There may be legitimate reasons for not deducting full contributions. If you are satisfied that the required contributions have not been withheld attach a note to your return, stating that your employer has failed to withhold sufficient Canada Pension Plan contributions.

4. Q. May I treat the cost of clearing and breaking land as an expense?

A. Yes, if you are in the business of farming. See page 7 of the Farmer's and Fisherman's Guide for further details.

5. Q. I've heard a lot about the registration of charitable organizations for tax deduction purposes. As a donor to some charities, what should I know about this?

A. Canadian charitable organizations issuing receipts for income tax purposes must be registered, and all receipts issued for donations must show the registration number of the organization. If you have received a receipt which doesn't show this number, you should get in touch with the organization and obtain a proper receipt.

6. Q. I am claiming depreciation under Part XVII. Can I change to the Part XI method, or back again, in any later year?

A. You may change from Part XVII to a Part XI, but you may not change back. In other words, once you claim under Part XI, you must remain there.

7. Q. I have rented my farm out on a crop-share basis for the last five years. Would I still be able to average my income?

A. Yes. For averaging purposes, income from farm rental such as this is considered to be income from farming.

"If our car gets much older", said the long-suffering motorist, "they'll start issuing it upper and lower plates".

STUDENT POWER. From coast to coast in Canada university students have forgotten the role of the pacifist and have adopted a militant approach to the educational system. The students have over-run universities and have gone so far as to create millions of dollars worth of damage to the institutions as well as battling with police. —TTS Photo

Pro athletes poor sports

Why don't professional athletes grow up?

As each week becomes memory, sports pages become filled with stories about threats to strike, pensions, arbitration and general defiance by professional athletes.

It's little wonder we have difficulty engaging a lawyer these days — most of them are working for professional athletes.

There's no sense pontificating on specific issues, namely major league baseball, hockey and football. Instead, let's generalize on the overall structure, and discuss the meat of the issue rather than fool around with the green beans.

The majority of pro athletes in the three abovementioned sports are paid above average salaries, that is, speaking comparatively with the people like you and I who are engaged in the world of business five days a week.

How many of us have engaged a lawyer to represent our financial interests when it comes to asking the boss for a raise? Granted, we do not have a black and white contractual agreement with our employers like a pro athlete, but most of us have an unwritten contract stating that we will be retained unless we do not do the work expected from us.

That's fair.

Before going any further, let's point out an important fact: age is not as important in our business positions. We don't have to worry about loss of a job after 40 because we can no longer skate quickly or toss a baseball 90 miles per hour.

But we are not paid on as high a salary scale for ... let's say, 15 years.

Pro athletes do have this problem. They need security, in the form of a reasonable pension, when their playing days are ended. But should they ask for more than you or I? Most of us contribute to a pension scheme which will provide sufficient security at retirement. Most pro athletes will be relatively young men when they hang up their gear, and consequently, finding employment should not be a difficult task.

Most of them should be able to enter the world of business in any vocation they desire. Making the big buck for many years, they should be able to have a bank account which would allow them to either go into business on their own or with a partner.

And, this would strengthen our overall economic situation.

It's about time pro athletes realized they are in a choice position. Nobody is attempting to knife them — although the many player representatives, committees and legal eagles will bellow loud and long this is the case.

Owners and executives are the same in any big business. They are in it to make money. However, the majority of pro sport owners and executives are far more genuinely interested in the sport than are owners and executives of major corporations. The brass in pro sport are fans, and huge financial losses will not result in them closing down the company.

I've always enjoyed the story about Vince Lombardi when he was coach and general manager of the Green Bay Packers.

His all-star centre, Jim Ringo, was due in the office to discuss contract, but instead of Ringo, a lawyer appeared.

Lombardi asked where Ringo was, and the lawyer explained that he was representing Mr. Ringo. Lombardi excused himself and went into his outer office, returning in 10 minutes later.

Looking the lawyer in the eyes, he asked: "Now, why are you here?"

The lawyer answered: "I'm here representing Mr. Ringo." Lombardi said: "Ringo? Oh, hadn't you heard? Jim Ringo was traded 10 minutes ago."

Pro sport could do with a few more Vince Lombardi types right now

MORE CHANGES: KIERANS

Post-Master General Eric Kierans said Friday he hopes the post office can be reorganized and made more efficient so that it may be converted at some date into a Crown corporation.

He told a news conference during a visit to the main post office in Montreal that the idea of a Crown corporation has not yet been presented to the federal cabinet "although they know that I favour this as a possible solution".

Mr. Kierans said recent changes and further studies being conducted on post office operations are intended to increase productivity and efficiency.

Once the post office eliminates its deficit position it could be converted to a Crown corporation. It might be operating at a profit as early as September.

Recently introduced changes in mail handling and delivery and other changes planned for between now and September would facilitate the change-over to a Crown corporation.

WELFARE COSTS UP 74%

The percentage increase in welfare assistance payments for the county of Hastings continued to be among the highest in the province, it is shown in the monthly report of the department of social and family services.

For the month of October, 1968, welfare assistance payments in the county totalled $479,968, as compared with $275,894 for October, 1967, or an increase of 74 per cent. The Hastings increase was the fourth highest in the province with the average Ontario increase being 40.4 per cent.

By contrast, payments in Prince Edward County showed a 15 per cent increase.

In terms of the number of persons receiving welfare assistance, the increase in Hastings over the 12-month period was 16.6 per cent, with 1,118 persons, or 1.3 per cent of the total population of 87,516, receiving assistance.

In Prince Edward the percentage increase in persons receiving assistance was five per cent, with 1.5 per cent of the total population of 19,152 receiving welfare assistance.

ICE MAKING MACHINE PRESENTED TO EYE BANK

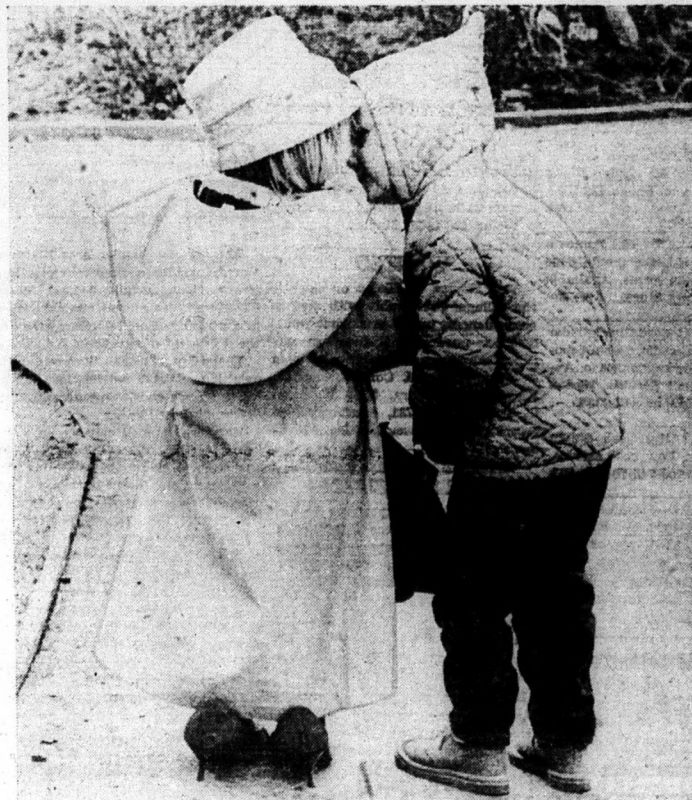

Ice will help bring vision to blind Canadians. Last week, the Eye Bank of Canada in Ontario was presented with an ice-making machine, a gift from four Toronto Lions Clubs. "The machine fills many of our requirements and will expand our capabilities", said Dr. George Thompson, Chairman of the Eye Bank.

"The ice will be used to fill the shipping containers in which the eyes travel to all parts of the province. Also, there are various experiments where eyes must be kept at a low temperature for some time", Dr. Thompson added.

"This donation by the Lions is another example of their important participation in prevention of blindness programs. The Lions assist many blind and potential blind people directly and also through projects of this type. In the future, they will become more involved in the work of the Eye Bank", Dr. Thompson added.

"We welcome their assistance". The main objective of the Eye Bank is to supply donor eyes to doctors who perform the delicate corneal transplant operation. Through this method, many Canadians have had sight restored. Right now, the need for eyes is desperate. There are forty people who are ready at a moment's notice to enter the hospital for the sight-restoring operation. Some are already in hospital waiting for donor eyes.

MADOC ONTARIO

MADOC STATION TO CLOSE

The Canadian transport commission has granted a CN application to remove its station agents from nine small towns in the Belleville region, it was confirmed Wednesday.

Express and freight service in the communities will now be processed by special long-distance telephone lines linked to a centralized master agency at Belleville.

Villages involved are Madoc, Marmora, Stirling, Wellington, Frankford, Campbellford, Colborne, Newcastle and Strathcona.

The commission turned down a CN application to include the Perth area hamlet of Forfar in the list, on grounds that existing telephone service there is inadequate.

The official decision ends a long battle by Marmora waged by its reeve William Shannon against a shutdown of community railroad services.

Marmora and Forfar were the only two opponents to the application when it came before a public hearing of the commission in Belleville last December.

The two-day session saw Hastings County and its member municipalities throw their weight behind Reeve Shannon in an appeal against economic centralization in urban areas to the detriment of rural regions.

Yesterday, Reeve Shannon, still awaiting official notification of the commission's conclusion, accepted his defeat philosophically.

Marmora, he still believes, was the "one place" that should have been the exception to the commission's ruling. "I accept the fact, and this decision no doubt was well thought out", he added. "But I'm not very happy".

"It's a retrograde step on the part of the railroad in their services to these communities."

The centralized service actually has been in operation for nearly a year, although station agents in the villages still have remained on duty. However, their function has been merely titular as far as the railroad was concerned as the commission's decision was awaited.

CN Rideau-area manager Harry

Fast said the railroad now is moving to formally close out the local stations.

Company and union officials already were in conference on personnel problems and the station agents would receive official shutdown notices this week.

The task now being tackled is re-location of the agents elsewhere in the area according to seniority.

The closings will leave no employees out of work, said Mr. Fast.

"It is a matter now of orderly relocation", he added. "There should be no problem".

Shutdown and relocation operations should be completed by mid March, said Mr. Fast.

TOWNSHIP SCHOOL ANNUAL SKATING PARTY A SUCCESS

The annual Skating Party of the Madoc Township School was held on Saturday, February 15th, in the Cooper Arena.

The party was attended by some 400 adults and children who contributed about $175.00 to a fund used for school educational trips.

The perfect weather, good ice and plentiful refreshments provided a very enjoyable evening for all who attended.

The efforts of the school children in advertising the party and selling tickets, the donations by parents to the refreshment booth, and the attendance of many parents all combined to make the party a success.

MADOC BAPTIST CHURCH W.M.S.

The February meeting of the W.M.S. was held at the home of Mrs. Ed. Gates.

The president, Mrs. Vaughan, conducted the first part of the meeting.

The hymn, "Blessed Assurance", was sung and Mrs. Vaughan led in prayer. Letters were read from various missionaries.

After the business was dealt with, Mrs. Wood, group leader, conducted the program.

The theme was "Love" and several verses of Scripture were read that contained the word Love.

Papers were given on "The Love of God", "The Love of Christ", "The Love of the Christians", and "The Love of our Fellow Man".

Scripture was I John, Chapter 4. A duet, "The Love of God", was sung by Mrs. Rauws and Mrs. Kaffin.

Mrs. Wood then gave the study on the book, "Fire on the Mountain", from the Sudan Interior Mission.

This was followed by a session of prayer. "My Jesus, I love Thee", was sung.

I Cor., 1-21, was read as the Benediction.

Lunch was served.
